HOOVER FAVORS REPAIRING WING FOR TIME BEING

Building of New Offices Not Considered Wise at This Moment.

'LINCOLN ROOM' USED AS DAY'S MAKESHIFT

Pershing Office Will Be Ready for President Some Time Today.

CLERK CORPS ON JOB AT BASEMENT DESKS

Workmen Patch Up Battered Roof; Reconstruction Bids Offered.

President Hoover late yesterday expressed the wish to have the west wing of the White House rebuilt for use as the executive office unit, and thus settled a mild controversy which had developed over whether or not a new and separate building should be erected apart from the historic mansion.

While the Chief Executive believes that such a new unit will have to be built ultimately and in fact favors such a proposal, he does not deem it wise at this time to replace the present west wing, even though it may cost $50,000 or $60,000 to make the necessary repairs.

The contract for rehabilitating the fire-swept section of the White House had not been let last night, though two bids were submitted in response to the call issued by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, superintendent of public parks and buildings. Maj. J. C. Mehaffey, assistant to the superintendent, received the bids, but declined to reveal the estimates or the names of the bidders until after he had conferred with Col. Grant, who was busy all day superintending the moving of the furniture of the President and his secretaries to the second floor of the State, War and Navy Building.

May Let Contract Today.

It is likely that the contract will be awarded today following a conference between Col. Grant and Maj Mehaffey. The superintendent's assistant explained last night that the two estimates, made by local concerns, vary a great deal because no specifications of the extent of the repairs have been set yet. They are, however, in the neighborhood of the original estimate of $60,000, he said.

It is expected that President Hoover will be able to occupy his temporary office, Gen. John J. Pershing's room, some time today, probably in the afternoon. After employes of the White House had been occupied all day removing Gen. Pershing's furnishings and files to a storage room and replacing them with fixtures from the former presidential office, Mr. Hoover, accompanied by Col. Grant, inspected his new quarters late yesterday afternoon.

While workmen repaired the holes in the roof of the west wing, made by the axes of firemen trying to get at the flames, a small corps of stenographers and clerks attached to the Executive offices were at work in the basement. The water had been drained, and the lower floor appeared only slightly damaged.

The grounds and interior of the damaged building were cleared of the debris left by the fire early yesterday.

Lincoln Room Used Yesterday.

Forlornly in the windows of the offices of the President and his secretaries still hung the Yule wreaths, somewhat blackened by smoke and, shapeless from the water that poured on them.

Yesterday President Hoover occupied make-shift office quarters in the presidential study or the famous Lincoln room, while his secretary, George Akerson, sat at a desk in the hallway. The other secretaries, Walter Newton, Lawrence Richey and French Strother, were in adjoining rooms.

Blame for the fire which wrecked the executive offices Christmas Eve was placed upon a defective and overheated flue in the office of Secretary Newton yesterday by George Watson, fire chief, following a thorough investigation. It was at first thought that defective wiring might have been responsible, but no evidence of short circuiting could be discovered.

The move to erect a new executive unit to replace the old quarters got well under way yesterday until the President issued his statement and even went so far as to revive the proposal for tearing down the State, War and Navy Building, which has frequently been ridiculed by architects and even by Mr. Hoover himself. The National Park and Planning Commission was the most outspoken in its demands that a new State Department Building in keeping with the architecture of surrounding Government structures be built.

Senator Henry W. Keyes, chairman of the public buildings and grounds

Californian to Marry Bessie Love Tonight

Bessie Love, motion picture star, and William B. Hawks, Beverly Hills, Calif., broker, whose marriage tonight is to be an outstanding film colony social event.

Film Star Will Attend Bride at Hollywood Social Event.

Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Wedding plans were being completed today for the marriage here tomorrow night of Bessie Love, motion picture star, and William B. Hawks, Beverley Hills, Calif., broker.

The wedding will be one of the outstanding social events of the season in the film colony, and most of its celebrities will be in St. James Episcopal Church, scene of the ceremony, to felicitate the actress and her fiance.

Blanche Sweet, actress and long time friend of Miss Love, whose real name is Juanita Horton, will be matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Bebe Daniels, Carmel Myers, Irene Mayer, Norma Shearer and her sister, Miss Athol Shearer, and Margaret Aster. The brothers of the bridegroom, Kenneth and Howard, will be best men.

The wedding will take place at 8:30 p. m. Afterward a reception will be held at the Ambassador Hotel. The couple announced no plans for a honeymoon but it was believed that if they made one, it would be a short journey, in view of Miss Love's motion picture contract. She has just completed one picture and is expected to begin another shortly.

Miss Love, who gave her age as 28 years in her application for a marriage license, is known in Hollywood as one of the few stars of the cinema who sank to oblivion on the silent screen and came back to score smashing hits in the talkies. She was born in Midland, Tex., and is one of the colony's veteran actresses. Her fiance, well known in financial circles here, is also 28 years old.

EIELSON SEARCHERS HELD IN BY WEATHER

Six Canadian Airmen Reach Fairbanks; Soviet Offers Reward.

SHESTAKOV HEADS PARTY

Fairbanks, Alaska, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The Eielson-Borland rescue expedition arrived here at 2:15 p. m. today by train from Seward. The three big Fairchild cabin planes which six Canadian airmen will fly from here to Bering Strait to join in the search for the missing American fliers were removed to hangars for assembling.

The expedition probably will be held for the flight of more than 400 miles to Seward Peninsula. The fliers who left Seattle Saturday on the United States Coast Guard cutter, Chelan, found it 30 degrees below zero here and the sky murky.

Capt. T. M. "Pat" Reid will succeed Capt. H. A. Oakes as leader of the expedition here. Capt. Reid, B. W. Broatch and Gifford Swartman will pilot the planes.

Nome, Alaska, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—While six Canadian airmen with their cabin planes were waiting at Fairbanks, and one Russian plane was heading toward North Cape somewhere over the Siberian wastes, four pilots today stood by awaiting favorable weather to resume their search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Alaska airmen, lost since No-

DYING VICTIM NAMES SIX AS MOB LEADERS

Five Men Accused in Lynching Surrender to Face Murder Charges.

FEUD LED TO SLAYING

Jackson, Ky., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Chester Fugate, who was taken from the Breathitt County Jail Christmas morning and shot and beaten, died late today, after he had accused six men of being the leaders in the latest shedding of blood affecting members of the Fugate and Watkins families.

Five of the men, kinsmen of Clay Watkins, whom Fugate shot to death December 18, came in and surrendered and were held in $5,000 bond each shortly before the death of Fugate, whose body showed thirteen bullet holes. Lee Watkins, of Hazard, the sixth man named by Fugate, sent word that he would surrender. The warrants charged malicious shooting and wounding, and after Fugate's death G. C. Allen, Commonwealth's attorney, prepared to issue murder warrants.

Fugate, who lay for five hours in a snow-filled ditch before he was found, made his statement to the Commonwealth's attorney in the presence of witnesses. Then, at its completion, said, "My arm's broken so I can't raise it to swear; I'll just hold up a finger."

He raised his right forefinger and swore to the affidavit. In it he de-

PRATT PROVES BOOMERANG IN BUNGLING QUIZ

Called In by Prosecution, Police Chief Backs Up Shelby and Kelly.

HANDLED M'PHERSON CASE WELL, HE SAYS

Defense Forces Striking of Several Questions Asked by Lynch.

AGNEW AGAIN BALKS AT GIVING TESTIMONY

Another of July Grand Jury Relates Story of Heavrin Criticizing Kelly.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, probably was the star witness yesterday before the special trial board which is hearing charges preferred by the July grand jury that the Police Department, represented by Inspector William S. Shelby and Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, bungled the investigation of the death of Mrs. Virginia McPherson, who was found lying on the floor of her apartment in the Park Lane Apartments, strangled with a pajama coat belt last September 14.

It was while Pratt was on the stand that Robert E. Lynch, chief prosecutor, so sharply emphasized the purpose of the prosecution to show how different had been the police investigation and manner of handling the McPherson case from the manner in which such cases are handled in story books.

Lynch was determined to force Pratt to say something which would convict Shelby and Kelly, and finally, at the instance of Henry I. Quinn, defense attorney for Shelby, the trial board ordered stricken from the record several of Lynch's shouted questions

Did Job Well, Says Pratt.

Pratt flatly refused to subscribe to the fiction idea of what a detective should do when he is assigned to investigate a case and said that to the best of his knowledge Shelby and Kelly had done their jobs of investigating well.

Lynch demanded to know if it were not true that Pratt had been friendly with Kelly for a number of years and still was friendly with the former head of the homicide squad of police headquarters.

"You are pretty friendly with Kelly, are you not?" demanded Lynch. Quinn jumped to his feet.

"This thing has gone far enough!" Quinn shouted. "All of these questions have been improper. We have sat here patiently because we didn't want to object to getting in the record anything which would be helpful. It seems that nobody else is going to stop him, but somebody should stop him from impugning the motives of a man of the high standing of the chief of police of this city. Major Pratt is the prosecution witness. The prosecutor is bound by what he says; but

BORAH CARRIES DRY BATTLE OVER ENFORCEMENT STAFF DIRECT TO CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Executive Precedent Is Broken As Hoover Calls on Ortiz Rubio

Other Subjects Dropped as Idahoan Lunches With Hoover.

BOTH REMAIN SILENT ON DETAILS OF TALK

Treasury Bares Plan for Unified Border Patrol as Attack Retort.

CUT IN ENTRY PORTS IS PART OF SCHEME

Senator Harris Enters Row Again, Asserting More Money Is Needed.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Borah's despair of ever enforcing prohibition "with the present personnel from top to bottom" yesterday led to a personal discussion on that inflammatory topic between him and President Hoover during luncheon at the White House.

Not another subject was mentioned, but details of the views exchanged were withheld both by the Chief Executive and the Republican dry from Idaho. Since he took a leading role in the Hoover presidential campaign through his emphasis of the prohibition issue, Senator Borah's Christmas Eve arraignment of the entire Volstead-enforcement line-up has intensified the tension over prohibition in Washington.

The latest flare-up was another retort to the Idahoan from the Treasury Department yesterday. Undersecretary Mills divulged plans for a unified border patrol and limitation of the number of Canadian ports of entry as means to restrict smuggling liquors. He said the Treasury will submit these to Congress as soon as it names a joint committee to consider enforcement questions.

Congress Gets Blame.

Only Wednesday the Treasury, through Prohibition Commissioner Doran, had assailed Borah's condemnation of the whole Volstead personnel as "bound to have a disheartening effect" on the morale of those doing the work. At the same time Attorney General Mitchell blamed Congress for not strengthening the enforcement machinery.

Borah stood by his celebrated "top to bottom" indictment, with a consequent increase in speculation as to just who he considered to be at the "top." Neither before nor after his luncheon engagement at the White House did the Idaho senator specify any one he had in mind.

The latest senator to enter the controversy is Sheppard, of Texas, a Democrat, who wrote the eighteenth amendment. He took a directly opposite stand from that of Borah by contending that enforcement is a success when measured by the standard of a majority of people obeying the law and most cases against offenders resulting in convictions.

More Effectiveness Sought.

"Further action is merely a question of making enforcement still more effective," said the Texan.

"I believe that President Hoover is doing everything within his power in this direction, that he is in intimate touch with his executives and investigators, that if there is anything wrong with them he will be the first to ascertain and correct it, and that these agencies are entitled to the confidence and support of the American people."

Senator Harris, of Georgia, a pronounced dry among the Democrats, pitched into the dispute again with a declaration that the Treasury needs more money to combat bootleggers and smugglers. He maintained that more cash would make possible the employment of a better class of dry agents.

In his statement, Undersecretary Mills pointed out that all prohibition personnel except the prohibition com-

U. S. LECTURE TOUR PLANNED BY KAROLYI

Former Hungarian President Sails Today; Allied to No Group.

PASSPORT ONCE REFUSED

Paris, Dec. 26 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Count Michael Karolyi, former president of the Hungarian Republican, is sailing tomorrow on the steamship George Washington for a lecture tour in America on Hungary and on the various dictatorships which have sprung up in Europe since the war.

Karolyi is going to America as an independent lecturer and is allied to no group of Hungarians or other political organization in America.

For weeks, since he received his passport from Secretary of State Stimson, after one had been denied him by former Secertary Kellogg, he has been receiving cablegrams and telephone calls from New York, urging him to speak under the auspices of various Hungarian and American organizations, but he has refused them all. He said today:

"Since I have been in power myself, I know how difficult it is to reverse decisions and I greatly appreciate the courtesy of the State Department in giving us a visa when it learned of the falsity of the stories of my political activities told by my political opponents.

"I am going to lecture in English, but will speak also in Hungarian to Leaders Have Two Chats; Wives Are Companions at Afternoon Tea.

Mexico's President-Elect Is Greeted by Stimson; Dined by Morrow.

President-elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio of Mexico came to Washington yesterday to receive an official welcome such as never before had been accorded one in his position.

To emphasize the cordial relationship between the two republics north and south of the Rio Grande, President Herbert Hoover ignored precedent and personally called on the Mexican leader at his embassy after the latter had called on him at the White House.

In the past, American Presidents have responded to such calls merely by sending their cards to the visitor by a White House aid.

Mrs. Hoover accompanied the President to the Mexican Embassy, and later went back for Senora Ortiz Rubio and took her to the White House for tea.

Allan Hoover Host, Too.

Not to be outdone by his parents, Allan Hoover gave a party for the children of the Mexican President-elect and for those of Ambassador Manuel Tellez.

President-elect Ortiz Rubio came here yesterday from Baltimore, where he had been undergoing an examination at Johns Hopkins Hospital, and found a crowded program awaiting him.

He paused in the midst of this last night, however, to outline his views for some 30 newspapermen who gathered at the Mexican Embassy.

Through an interpreter — Carlos Barrera, secretary to Ambassador Tellez and a famous Mexican playwright—the president-elect said that he regards the religious question in his country as settled. He said he felt that the land appropriation problem also had been settled.

Loan Not His Aim, He Says.

He denied that he was here to secure a loan, explaining that, in view of Mexico's resources, no loan was necessary.

Asked if he would discuss the relations of Mexico and the United

NEW PLAN PROPOSED TO DRY UP U.S. SHIPS

Affidavit Idea Is Aimed at Vessels' Supplies of Medicinal Liquor.

TO BAR BEVERAGE USE

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Treasury is about to put into effect new plans governing the use of medicinal liquor on American-owned vessels with a view to preventing the sale of beverage liquor at any time, it was learned yesterday.

The American ship operators, it is understood, are to be required to sign an affidavit that their medicinal stores will not at any time be used except for medicinal purposes.

At present it is the practice of many transatlantic ships to make use of the medicinal liquor once they are outside the 12-mile limit, according to reports. The stock is replenished at the foreign port and on the return trip there is no prohibition control until the vessel comes again within the 12-mile limit. The liquor stock is then returned to the medicinal status.

By having ship operator sign an affidavit that medicinal stock with which the vessel is permitted to leave the country will not be converted to beverage stock on the outbound trip, American vessels will have difficulty, if they are not entirely prevented from, competing with the liquor feature of foreign-owned ships.

Some American operators have already discontinued carrying even medicinal stocks on board.

One of the big lines, however, recently embarked upon a vigorous plan in an attempt to have just as good a bar service as that on foreign-owned vessels.

Under the prohibition laws American-owned ships are permitted to carry medicinal stocks. The Treasury's new plan of control is understood to be contained in a new form of application which the operator must make for a medicinal permit.

So far as known the Treasury does not intend to go any further than

Guard in District Jail Aids Rum Ring Expose

Attendant, Dismissed for Possession, Gives Leads on Peddlers of Liquor and Drugs at Penal Institution; High Prices Quoted.

The first move to break up an alleged ring believed to have been engaged in smuggling contraband to prisoners in the District Jail was seen on Christmas Eve when a guard at the prison was discharged by Col. William A. Peak after the guard had been caught with a half-pint flask of liquor in his possession.

Considerable mystery veils the unusual fact that the man was merely discharged, and not arrested, although some explanation is found in the fact that at least five other guards are under suspicion and expected to be implicated definitely in the illicit traffic within the next few days.

While Colonel Peak refused to discuss the situation last night, it is believed that he followed the course of dismissal rather than of arrest in order to aid in getting sufficient evidence against others who are seen as the "master minds."

Much of the information now in possession showing the traffic in contraband within the walls of the jail was obtained from prisoners, who, it is understood, "chattered" in order to save themselves after being caught.

From these informants it has been learned that the operations of the ring must have netted its members a good profit, prices being from five to ten times as high as is paid for the same commodities peddled outside the jail.

The "market" price for bathtub gin paid by prisoners, for instance, has been $5 a half pint, the same stuff being obtainable from bootleggers outside for a general average price of 75 cents a half pint. So-called rye, which can be bought outside for $4 a pint, is reported to cost prisoners at the District Jail as high as $20. These liquors seem to be the only ones handled in any appreciable quantities by the alleged ring.

Similarly high prices are quoted as having been charged the prisoners for the dope they are said to have purchased through the ring. Heroin, which brings $1 per deck of two grains when bought from peddlers anywhere else in the District, or $2.50 for five-grain decks, cost the prisoners as high as $5 for the small decks and $10 for five-grain quantities, according to information obtained last night. Cocaine, morphine and other drugs were declared to be proportionately high in price.

The one guard dismissed was searched and let out without effort being made to apprehend him in the act of making a sale or delivery. Since his dismissal, with the threat of arrest and severe punishment facing him, this guard is understood to have given much vital information which is expected to be of material assistance in trapping the "brains" of the alleged ring.

Exposure Kills Mother, Baby Son; Daughters Survive Cold.

Huntsville, Ala., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Minnie Marcum who, with her mother, a younger sister and infant brother, started from here Tuesday, December 17, to spend the Christmas holidays at their mountain home on the slopes of Sharps Mountain, 25 miles from Huntsville, today told the story of the party being lost and the death from exposure of her mother and infant brother, four days later.

A report of the tragedy was brought from the snow-covered mountain today by a runner, the first to make his way through the heavy snow. Doctors and an ambulance were dispatched from here to administer to the girl and her 7-year-old sister, Pearl.

Two Gang Murders Linked With Fake Dinner Holdup

Contract to Kill Yale and Marlow Is Bared at Police Trial.

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—A year ago July 1 Frankie Yale was killed. Last June 24 Frank Marlow was taken for a ride from which he didn't come back. December 7 a dinner party being given for Magistrate Albert Vitale was held up. Today the two unsolved gangster murders and the hold-up of the dinner for the city magistrate were linked together, all because a detective lost his pistol.

The holdup was "faked," Police Inspector Joseph J. Donovan testified today at the departmental trial of Detective Arthur Johnson, who is under charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and consorting with criminals, growing out of the publicity given the loss of his pistol. What the holdup men wanted, Donovan missioner is selected from lists submitted by the Civil Service Commission, and that the Treasury and Prohibition Bureau have nothing to do with the selection of the men prior to the submission of the lists.

Explaining why the plans of prohibition reorganization are being delayed through failure of Congress to appoint the committee, Mills said the Treasury will call for the unification of the border patrol under the Coast Guard, with certain designated ports of entry. In addition to the plan's getting congressional approval, he said, the Canadian government will have to acquiesce.

The plan calls for the designation of certain ports of entry along the Canadian border with the establishment of a strong patrol between such ports. All persons entering the United States would be required to come in at the ports of entry and no entry at other places would be permitted. Mills said the plan would make the smuggling of liquor across the border more difficult.

Other Plans Pending.

Other plans which are expected to be submitted to the congressional committee are those called for by President Hoover, which include the transfer of prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Department of Justice, means of relieving the congestion in the Federal courts and codification of the laws.

Senator Harris, one of the leaders in efforts to get a preliminary report from the Hoover commission on law enforcement, said he could not estimate how much more money would be needed for effective enforcement of the Volstead act until the commission's report was received. Harris last February introduced legislation intended to provide the Treasury with $25,000,000 to be used for phohibition enforcement, but the amount was cut to $2,700,000 before it was finally enacted.

Danger of Delay Cited.

"To delay a report on prohibition until the study of the whole law enforcement situation is completed is to do all that the enemies of prohibition want them to do," Mr. Harris said. "This delay is causing the prohibition law to become increasingly unpopular, and will lead to disrespect for other laws."

The resolution providing for appointment of the joint committee requested by the President, which was adopted by the Senate, is now before the rules committee of the House. While some House leaders have expressed an opinion that eventually it would be adopted, they have said they expect opposition to materialize.

President Hoover, in asking Congress last June to appoint the committee to cooperate with committees from the Department of Justice and the Treasury in drawing up a reorganization plan for prohibition enforcement, asked that it be done with utmost expedition. The Senate approved the resolution shortly before it adjourned for the Christmas holidays.

Curran Appears With Statement.

While the senatorial disputants over enforcement were having their say, Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, issued a formal statement concerning the developments. It read:

"I see by the papers that Mr. Boran says the only trouble with prohibition is that the snoopers do not snoop efficiently, but Mr. Mitchell says the trouble is with Congress, while Mr. Doran says the trouble is with the American people.

"Did it never occur to any of them that perhaps the trouble lies in the law itself?

"Perhaps they have read their Iolanthe well enough to make up a trio and do this little chorus for us:

"'The law is the true embodiment
Of everything that's excellent.
It has no kind of fault or flaw
And I, my lords, embody the law.'"

Fess Calls Outburst "Regrettable Incident"

Yellow Springs, Ohio, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Senator Simeon D. Fess (Republican), Ohio, in a statement issued at his home here today, characterized as "a regrettable incident" the attack that has been made on the Government personnel for prohibition enforcement by Senator Borah, of Idaho.

Senator Fess' statement follows:

"It is most regrettable that at this time, when law enforcement is being given most substantial attention and has the active and sympathetic cooperation, not only of the Justice and Treasury Departments, but of the President, that any statement coming from a friend of enforcement should be construed as a lack of solidarity of support among the friends of prohibition.

"Enforcement of any law involving the appetite of any of our citizens is difficult at best. The personnel in charge reacts to public opinion and especially that of friends of the cause. Its morale can be greatly injured, if not destroyed, by lack of support.

"Wholesale attack on the administration of the law, no matter what the purpose, can be but deplored, especially at the time when the Government, under the advice of the President, has taken steps to tighten up law enforcement all along the line and which has resulted in a more healthful attitude of the public toward obedience to law.

"In the light of recent results I anticipate substantial progress through a further reorganization now in vogue and the assurance of all funds necessary to enforce the law."

TREASURY HAS PLAN TO MAKE SHIPS DRY

this in its effort to make American ships dry. The United States Supreme Court has held that while Congress can prevent the sale of liquor on American ships, it has not done so in the Volstead act.

The Government can control, of course, the vessels when they are in American waters. There was some talk once that some arrangement might be made whereby outgoing vessels could take on beverage stocks after they had gotten outside the 12-mile zone. This plan is believed, however, to have been abandoned as too impracticable.

But if the bars are to remain open some such plan will manifestly have to be worked out under the oath which the Treasury plans to make the operators give.

Champagne Boat And Crew Seized

Liquors Worth $100,000 Taken on Nova Scotian Ship Off Boston.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—A Coast Guard patrol boat seized the 110-foot Nova Scotian auxiliary schooner Irene C. 3 miles east of Boston lightship before dawn today and brought her into port loaded with about 1,000 cases of assorted liquors, most of it high grade champagne. The value of the cargo was placed roughly at $100,000 by the appraisers' office.

The schooner, a converted subchaser, painted gray and resembling a Coast Guard boat, hove to on signal and was boarded without resistance.

Her captain, Norman Conrad, and mate, Rennie Cook, both of Riverport, N. S., and her crew of seven were arraigned in United States District Court charged with conspiracy to smuggle liquor into the United States and held in bail totaling $17,000.

Coast Guardsmen said the schooner frequently had been seen off this coast in the last year and a half and had been chased several times, but had always managed to get away.

U. S. HELP PROMISED IN RUM KILLING QUIZ

Federal Attorney in Buffalo Ready to Investigate Coast Guard Case.

SENATOR WIRES BILLARD

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Cooperation of Federal with county and city authorities in investigating circumstances surrounding the fatal shooting last night of Eugene F. Downey, jr., by the crew of Coast Guard boat No. 2245, was promised to the fullest extent by U. S. Attorney Richard H. Templeton tonight. An inquest will be held tomorrow in city court. The three members of the Coast Guard crew are held at the local Coast Guard station.

Referring to a telegram dispatched by District Attorney Guy B. Moore to Attorney General William D. Mitchell in Washington, urging that pressure be brought to bear to force Mr. Templeton to reveal the facts of the case, the Federal official stated:

"No requests for cooperation were made to me, either by Mr. Moore or by city officials before 4 o'clock this afternoon, some hours after the wire was sent to Washington. We are ready and have been ready to work with Mr. Moore and other authorities in fixing blame in the matter."

Mr. Templeton said that in his opinion the Coast Guardsmen were by no means culpable.

"They acted in pursuit of their duty," he said. "They gave Downey's boat the customary warning to stop. When he did not stop, they fired."

The names of the three Coast Guardsmen were withheld today by Commander Martin W. Rasmussen of the Coast Guard district.

Downey, already under indictment in a liquor smuggling case in connection with the seizure of the barge Loretta, was shot while cruising in the harbor. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, but had lost so much blood that efforts to save him were unavailing. He left a widow and child. His father is a lieutenant in the local police force.

The man who was with Downey in the boat when the shooting occurred escaped after making the craft fast to a wharf.

Copeland Wires Billard.

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—United States Senator Royal S. Copeland today sent a telegram to Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, Coast Guard commandant, urging that Coast Guardsmen involved in the fatal shooting of Eugene F. Downey, jr., at Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday be turned over to civil authorities.

The New York senator's telegram, which was sent to Admiral Billard, at Washington, said:

"You and I have discussed these Coast Guard outrages and you have expressed the hope they were ended. What can be said now when another apparently needless death is on the shoulders of your Buffalo men?

Hanson Case Cited.

"My urgent advice in the Hanson case was to submit the officials charged with the crime to civil authorities. The Government can not afford to take any other action in the Downey matter.

"The people of the sovereign State of New York are entitled to know why such evil things can happen and point the way to their prevention, a thing the Federal authorities have failed to do.

"What is to be done in this case? I beg of you to let our authorities deal with this homicide exactly as they would do if it had been committed by civilians."

Brazilian Deputy Shot In Row With Colleague

Rio Janeiro, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Deputy Souza Filho, of Pernambuco, was shot and killed by Deputy Simoes Lopez, former minister of agriculture, after a violent political discussion in the corridors of the Chamber of Deputies today.

Deputy Filho was one the leaders of the administration group in the chamber, and Deputy Lopez, who represents Rio Grand do Sul, is the chief of the Lberal party executive committee.

Witnesses said Lopez's son struck Souza Filho with a cane, and when the latter drew a knife Lopez shot him to protect his son. Filho died on the way to a hospital. Lopez was arrested.

$190,164,359 IN TAX REFUNDS REPORTED

Well-Known Persons Among Those to Benefit by Distribution.

EASTERN CONCERNS LEAD

Tax refunds totaling $190,164,359.48 were made by the Government during the fiscal year ended June 30 last, according to a report yesterday to the ways and means committee of the House of Representatives by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. The refunds went to a list of approximately 8,000 persons and corporations, including many figures of national importance.

Refunds were made in cases where taxes had been illegally or erroneously collected, but in many cases they were for taxes paid as far back as 1917, settlement having been made only during the last year.

Heading the list of tax refunds was that to the Carnegie Steel Co., totaling $25,849,542.43, the largest refund in Treasury history. The United States Steel Corporation, of which the Carnegie firm is a part, still has claims aggregating millions of dollars pending against the Government, awaiting adjustment.

Well-Known Names Included.

John D. Rockefeller, Senator James Couzens, of Michigan; Mary Pickford, Mrs. Alice G. Kales, of Detroit; Sir Harry Lauder, D. W. Griffith, Inc.; Mrs. Elizabeth C. Morrow and Mrs. Ganna Walska McCormick were among the notables who received various sums.

Mr. Rockefeller received $157,227; Senator Couzens, $989,883.49; Mary Pickford, $10,168; Mrs. Kales, $3,134,780.21; Mr. Lauder, $1,454; Mr. Griffith, $55,588; Mrs. Morrow, $2,222, and Mrs. McCormick, $17,286.

In addition to the award to Mrs. Kales, ten other refunds of more than a million dollars on taxes collected erroneously during the fiscal year of 1929 were made. They include the Botany Worsted Mills of Passaic, N. J., $1,007,770; the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., of Newark, N. J., $1,075,361; the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, Newark, N. J., $3,788,129; the Standard Oil Co., of Louisville, Ky., $2,614,552; the Central Leather Co., of New York, $1,104,849; the William P. Clyde estate, Brooklyn, $1,404,930; the P. Lorillard Co., of New York, $1,627,501; the W. R. Grace Co., New York, $3,510,449; the Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Boston, $1,117,349, and the Maine Securities Co., of Chicago, $1,054,295.

Astor Trust Gets Payment.

Another refund involving a long-drawn-out tax controversy with the Government was that of $6,456,829 to the William Waldorf Astor Trust. The American Locomotive Co. received $925,698.36, and the estate of Helen C. Bostwick, $675,218.21. The Aluminum Co. of America, a Mellon concern, received $620,538.70.

Among the prominent film personages who received refunds were Mrs. Lottie Zukor, $10,166; Lois Moran, $2,000; Ann Pennington, $997; Otis Skinner, $782; the Pickford Corporation, $67,800; Mrs. Charlotte Pickford Smith, estate of Dennis F. O'Brien, $10,214; the Douglas MacLean Productions, $8,769; Mrs. Bessie Lasky, $7,415, and Mrs. Mildred Zukor Loew, $9,551.

While the refunds totaled more than $190,000,000, Treasury officials pointed out that additional assessments and collections resulting from office audits and field investigations aggregated $405,855,475.95. The total amount refunded for the years 1917 to 1929 was $1,127,481,557.50, or about 22 per cent of the additional assessments and collections resulting from audits and investigations, which totaled $5,042,147,250 during that period. Refunds were only 2.8 per cent of the total tax collections in those years.

INQUIRY IS OPENED IN DEATH YEAR AGO

Relative Says Millionaire Offered $100,000 to Be "Put to Sleep."

WILL BEING CONTESTED

Los Angeles, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Five witnesses, a relative and former employes in the home of George Lafayette Finn, millionaire former Iowa State senator, were summoned today to appear at the district attorney's office for questioning regarding circumstances surrounding Finn's death almost a year ago.

Those asked to appear are Jane Corwin Finn, niece and former secretary of the senator; Frank Remington, former nurse of Finn; Charles Lachman, a chauffeur; John Dickey, a nurse, and Dr. Frank Murphy, physician in attendance.

Mrs. Pearl Crane, a friend of Finn, who saw the 84-year-old man frequently prior to his death, was brought into the case today when her husband notified the district attorney's office she might be able to aid in the investigation.

Investigation into the death grew out of a civil case involving the aged man's will. Mrs. Gladys McAfee, a grandniece, a beneficiary under Finn's will drawn in 1925, told the district attorney's office she learned from a nurse that Finn had offered a nurse and a physician $100,000 to "put me to sleep forever."

The 1925 will later was revoked when another was found, naming other legatees. This will is being contested.

FRANCE REAFFIRMS NAVY VIEWS IN NOTE

Policy at London Meeting to Rest on League Pact, Powers Are Told.

GENERAL ACCORD URGED

Paris, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The French foreign office tonight made public a memorandum explaining to the four other powers to be represented at the London Naval Disarmament Conference in January that the French policy would be based on the covenant of the League of Nations.

France thus has reaffirmed its insistence that the London conference be regarded mainly as a forerunner to a general disarmament conference at Geneva subsequently.

The Quai d'Orsay, while recognizing the value of the Kellogg-Briand pact, affirmed it was not sufficient under present conditions to guarantee the security of nations, though it constituted a real progress toward disarmament.

U. S.-Britain Accord Cited.

The foreign office note explains that such a consideration probably was what had prevented the British government from envisaging an important reduction in its naval armament and the American Government from abandoning the rapid completion of its last naval program.

The note adds that both these governments were in accord on the idea of excluding any chance of conflict between themselves, but seemed to be obliged to consider that their navies had the protection of communications as their essential task. This did not seem to have excluded the hypothesis that they might be brought to intervene in a conflict caused by the violation of solemn engagements.

The note continues by saying that the nations will be in a position to consider disarmament effectively only in proportion to the outside help on which they may rely. An accord on naval disarmament would presuppose a previous political accord.

The Quai d'Orsay believes that an agreement concerning naval disarmament at present presupposes a previous accord concerning the liberty of the seas, defining the rights of belligerents and of neutrals, and providing for the eventual collaboration of fleets against the navy of an aggressor.

Washington Plan Repudiated.

The note seems to repudiate the system adopted by the Washington conference for the reduction of armaments.

It points out that the system failed when attempts were made to extend it to all navies and adds that the London conference can not reach its full objective unless it makes possible a general agreement on the limitation of armaments at Geneva.

The note bases French policy for the conference on Article VIII of the league convenant and rejects the idea of basing disarmanent on estimates of the strength of the five greatest naval powers.

It points out that the French outlay for naval construction was less this year than in 1913, though the protection of 20,000 miles of coast in the mother countries and the colonies created an obligation that the French government could not lose sight of in fixing its minimum naval requirements.

Two Boys Die of Burns After Gasoline Blast

Brookings, S. Dak., Dec. 26 (A.P.). Milford and Clifford Barton, 10 and 8 year old sons of E. F. Barton, of South Brookings, died of burns received yesterday as they attempted to kindle a fire in a stove with gasoline.

Gasoline was thrown over the two when a gallon container exploded. Overcome by the shock and the flames, and unable to run from the house, they were carried out by a neighbor, who heard their screams. The children were alone when the explosion occurred.

Dr. Zahm Is Named to Fill Guggenheim Aviation Chair

Pioneer in Aeronautics to Take Post at Library of Congress.

DR. ALBERT F. ZAHM.

Dr. Albert F. Zahm, a pioneer in aeronautics and director of the aerodynamic laboratory of the Navy since 1916, has been appointed to the Guggenheim chair of aeronautics at the Library of Congress, established recently by the Daniel Guggenheim Fund.

Since his youth, Dr. Zahm has been deeply interested in aviation, and has devoted himself assiduously to its scientific development. While an undergraduate at the University of Notre Dame, he did experimental work in airplane construction by building toy planes of varied types and materials. He continued this work for several years, and finally went to Cornell University expressly for the purpose of advancement along that line through the study of mechanical engineering.

During the early 1890's, Dr. Zahm sponsored the first International Conference on Aerial Navigation during the World Fair at Chicago. Numerous scientific papers on the subject were presented at the conference and subsequently were published in a 400-page volume which has become a standard text. Carrying forward his pioneering in aerial science, Dr. Zahm, after obtaining his mechanical engineering degree at Cornell, went to Johns Hopkins University, where he worked out his Ph. D. He prepared his thesis on "The Resistance of Air at All Speeds Up to 1,000 Feet a Second" while a professor of mechanics at Catholic University in Washington. This thesis also was published and continues to be an authoritative treatise. In obtaining material for it, Dr. Zahm used a cannon to fire objects for speed and resistance tests. He also developed an instrument, the optical chronograph, for making measurements in these tests. This instrument and his metheds are now being used by the Bureau of Standards in similar research and laboratory work.

While at Catholic University, Dr. Zahm also developed the first "air tunnel," a valuable device for measuring wind velocity.

During the World War, Dr. Zahm took charge of the scientific laboratory at the Curtiss-Wright factory, and later, when the aviation section of the Navy was created, became director of the aerodynamical laboratory at the navy yard in Washington.

In addition to this strictly scientific work, Dr. Zahm also has had a large part in various other features of aviation. In 1908 he was selected as chairman of the committee appointed by the Press Club, which sponsored the Aero Club of Washington. In 1910 he, with Alexander Graham Bell and Gen. George O. Squier, made a study for and recommendations to the Smithsonian Institution concerning the preservation of the Langley laboratory, which resulted in the present Langley Memorial Laboratory, the largest contrivance in the world for scientific testing of airplane models. He likewise was instrumental in bringing the first international air contests to Washington.

In 1913, Dr. Zahm assisted the Smithsonian Institution in sending the original Langley airplane to the Curtiss factory, where it finally was made to fly from water under its own power. He officially represented the institution at the factory.

Dr. Zahm was awarded the Laetare Medal by Notre Dame in 1925 for his services in the field of science, which is the highest honor bestowed by an American Catholic institution on a Catholic layman.

Concerning his work at the Library of Congress, which he will assume on January 2, Dr. Zahm is very enthusiastic. He declares it should be "the foremost center for the dissemination of aerial information in this hemisphere, and also a center of research for all students and investigators who wish to do original work in aeronavigation."

His work will be the interpretation of the aeronautical literature at the National Library and the advising of research workers.

Dr. Zahm is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Washington Philosophical Society, the Washington Academy of Sciences and the Cosmos Club.

396,000,000 Ways Appear To Spell "Circumference"

Iowa Savant Tells American Association for Advancement of Science That English Alphabet Is Insufficient, Having More Sounds Than Letters.

Des Moines, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Poor spellers now may take comfort that they are not so dumb, for there are 396,000,000 ways of spelling the word "circumference" alone.

These millions of spellings for just one word are phonetic, spelling the word as it sounds, like using "thoro" for thorough. Moreover, all of them are from the live speech of daily English, and not mixtures of slang. They are made by using combinations of letters in other words which give one of the sounds in circumference.

They illustrate, said Dr. Ernest Horn, of the State University of Iowa, at the education section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the extreme difficulties facing educators who would make spelling more rational. For example, he said, the second sound in circumference, "ir," is represented in 21 different ways in other words, some of the combinations being: ir, er, or, ar, our, ear, ere, are, err, oar, oir, eur, re, yr, yrrh, irr, urr and orr.

The "s" sound in circumference, he went on, "is spelled in fourteen ways. The confusion caused by this variation in the spelling of both the vowel and the consonant sounds is naturally very great. Circumference can be spelled in 396,000,000 different ways by using the spellings of identical or similar sounds in words likely to be known to a sixth-grade child.

"Our alphabet is inefficient. There are more sounds in English than there are letters. The sound of long e can be made in twenty-two ways. There are forty-seven sound letter combinations which the child must learn for the letter a alone by the time he has finished third grade. Such hope as exists for rationalizing spelling is to be found first in the gradual casting out of parasite letters—dropping the u in words like honour—and second by teaching the rules by which prefixes and suffixes are added to base words to make derived forms."

Webster himself bumped this snag when he tried to spell women as "wimmin" and was forced to "back up," said Dr. Horn. Our spelling, however, gives variety in correct pronunciation. The word "often" was customarily used without sounding the "t," but now, more and more, cultivated persons sound the "t." There are four cultivated ways of pronouncing "horse" in Minneapolis, said Dr. Horn. Cultured persons sound the "r" almost with a burr, but in Louisiana, Maine and Cambridge, England, they largely drop the "r" sound, and each place does it differently.

Most persons write "enclose" in their letters, but Dr. Horn found many of good standing who write "inclose."

The revolt of American youth against conduct standards was discussed by several educators. Examples of personality and behavior problems were given by Dr. Harry Baker, clinical psychologist of the Detroit public schools. He studied 1,357 boys and girls who broke the traces more in minor than in major fashion.

"Twelve-year-old pupils, he said, "are worse than 7-year-olds in arguing, cheating and resenting correction. White boys are worse than white girls in bullying, fighting, interfering and being 'smart Alecs.' Girls are worse than boys in lying, cheating and stealing.

"Cheating as a special trait occurred in 469 of the 1,357 cases. It is more common among older than younger pupils. Dull pupils cheat more than bright ones and the trait is closely related to arguing, interfering, lying and fighting.

"Slow or slightly dull pupils were 14.6 times more frequent behavior offenders than bright pupils, and children behind their grade for their age were more frequent than were pupils ahead of their grade.

ROBBERS BELIEVED HELD IN CAVE TRAP

Tear Gas Is Taken to Scene After Holdup, Slaying in Kentucky.

TRIO LEAVES BANK LOOT

Smiths Grove, Ky., Dec. 26 (A.P.). J. Robert Kirby, 45, president of the Farmers Bank, was shot and killed by three men here today as he and a party of friends attempted to stop the robbers' automobile after they had robbed the Oakland Bank, at Oakland, Ky., near here, of approximately $1,000.

Four or five hundred citizens, organized into posses under the leadership of the sheriff and his deputies, at once started searching the hills near here for the bandits. Several shots were fired at their automobile as they left Oakland, and it is thought that two of them are wounded.

Brig. Gen. H. H. Denhardt, of the Kentucky National Guard, a former Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, furnished the posses with national guard rifles and tear gas bombs and led one of the groups of searchers. One of the bandits is reported to have been seen on Rocky Hill, and the other two are believed to be hiding in a cave. The tear gas bombs were taken along to smoke them out if this is found to be true.

Mouth of Cave Guarded.

Guards were placed at the mouth of a cave about a mile and a half from here, where a woman reported she had seen two men enter shortly after the robbers fled.

The men entered the Oakland Bank this morning, lined up ten customers and bank employes, scooped up all the money in sight and dashed for their automobile. The alarm was immediately sounded and several citizens began firing at them. Notification of the robbery was then telephoned to Smiths Grove and a party opened fire on them as the car entered the town.

The robbers returned the fire, killing Mr. Kirby and wounding Charles Beard, 22, in the foot. The car sped on, and was later found abandoned 3 miles farther down the road. A bag of money found in the car is believed to be the entire loot obtained at the Oakland bank.

Tennessee Refuses Plane.

Gen. Denhardt, Capt. Joe S. Garmon and twelve enlisted men from the 149th Infantry of the Kentucky National Guard arrived on the scene in answer to a telephone summons. The party took tear bombs and rifles and sidearms to a small woods near Hays, where for a time it was believed the men were hiding.

An appeal was made to Adjt. Gen. W. C. Boyd, of Tennessee, for an airplane of the Tennessee National Guard to scour the country, but Boyd said he did not have authority for a plane to serve outside the State.

The posses late today were swelled by scores of farmers, who arrived with shotguns and pistols.

PRESIDENT WISHES WEST WING REBUILT

committee, declared yesterday that his committee would stand ready to do whatever the President wished. He admitted that there "is force in the argument" that the White House should be free of an office, but he added that the question of convenience should be considered.

"If I were President, I would want my office and house separate," he said. "With the rapid building of Government buildings, which is now under way, the White House will soon be an annex of the executive offices instead of the executive offices being an annex of the White House."

Senator Wesley L. Jones, chairman of the appropriations committee, expressed the opinion that now is the proper time to replace the old quarters with new even though it might temporarily inconvenience the President and his aids.

The work of rehabilitating the west wing will get under way just as soon as the contract is let, according to Col. Grant, as there is a fund of $45,000 unused in the White House appropriations which can be turned over for repairs until Congress has time to act on a new appropriation.

Husband Asks Police To Seek Missing Wife

Police were requested yesterday to conduct a search for Mrs. Edna Mae Hepburn, 25 years old, who was reported missing from her home at 2131 F street northwest since 8 o'clock Christmas morning.

The request was made by her husband, Charles Hepburn. Mrs. Hepburn, police were informed, is 5 feet tall, weighs 115 pounds, has blue eyes, dark red hair and was wearing a tan tweed, fur trimmed coat.

PRATT, ON STAND, BACKS AIDS IN HANDLING M'PHERSON CASE

now, after presenting him to this board as a reputable witness whom the board should believe, he is trying to impugn his testimony—the testimony of his own witness."

Dares Him to State Purpose.

He was not trying to impugn Pratt's testimony, Lynch declared.

But Quinn declared that that could be "the only possible purpose" and said that the "only possible inference" was that Pratt would be "willing to perjure himself." But that was not his purpose, Lynch insisted. Then, said Quinn, "I dare you to state your purpose frankly to this trial board."

There was no intention to insult any one, Lynch said. Then, Quinn insisted Lynch should state his purpose. But, said Lynch, he didn't have to do that. There were side remarks and attorneys on both sides appeared angry, but Maj. L. E. Atkins, chairman of the special trial board, intervened, after a consultation with J. B Gordon, sanitary engineer, and Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, coordinator of the engineer departments, other members of the trial board. The questions asked by Lynch would be stricken from the record, ruled Maj. Atkins.

Bitter Feeling Shown.

The passage was indicative of the feeling which exists between the Police Department and the District Commissioners and the corporation counsel's office. The Police Department believes it has been given a "raw deal" by the Commissioners. It believes that the Commissioners have been little more than weather vanes which veered with every breeze that blew and it believes, too, that the corporation counsel's office has gone out of its way to protect the jurors who criticized the Police Department at the same time it prosecuted the attack instigated by the jury.

Pratt's appearance in the witness chair had been looked forward to. Pratt had told the Commissioners bluntly that he would not prefer charges against either Shelby or Kelly. William W. Bride, corporation counsel, sought to persuade Pratt to bring the charges, but Pratt refused to do so. The charges against Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly, Pratt said, came from the July grand jury, and the jury would have to stand behind the charges, but he signed them as a matter of form.

Presented as a prosecution witness, Pratt was another instance of a prosecution witness who did more good to the defense than to the prosecution. He refused to criticize the investigation of the McPherson death, declaring that his approval of the investigation was based on reports he had been given by Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly.

Admits Mistake by Shelby.

Shelby did make a mistake, Pratt said, in demanding that the July grand jury indict "that damnable woman and that man Allen" for perjury. Pratt indicated that he was in sympathy with the demand which had been made by Shelby, but said that he thought Shelby's demand was not a proper one.

Pratt praised the ability of both accused officers, saying that Kelly was an honest, thorough and capable investigator. The effort of the prosecution to get a statement from the police chief that Shelby and Kelly should have taken written statements from every person even remotely connected with the McPherson case met with flat failure. Written statements were taken from persons suspected of crime in homicide cases, Maj. Pratt said, but not otherwise. It is seldom done by the police, Maj. Pratt explained patiently to Lynch. It seemed as if he might have been giving a lesson in police work to the prosecutor.

It was an exciting day at the trial. Samuel P. Agnew, a member of the July grand jury and a member of the committee of five who drafted the report criticizing the police and the district attorney, refused to testify. He previously had announced, when called to the stand last Monday, that he would not testify.

But when he was warned that he would be cited to the police court for contempt if he persisted in his refusal to give testimony he asked for time to consult counsel. He returned yesterday with Harry Whelan, his attorney, and formally refused to testify.

Baxter M. Davidson, another member of the grand jury, also refused to testify. It was Davidson's first refusal to talk and after he had been told that he would be cited to the police court he, too, asked for time to consult with an attorney and was given until 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Then he returned with Robert I. Miller, an attorney, who had him base his refusal to testify on his oath as a grand juror. There ensued a wrangle over this in the course of which Miller warned the trial board that it would be in contempt of court if it tried to compel jury members to testify at the trial. The fact that the trial was the result of the grand jury criticism made no difference, Miller gave the board to understand.

Another Jury Testifies.

Miller wanted opportunity for Davidson to make a statement, but Maj. Atkins said no, and cited Davidson to the Police Court, as had been done in the case of Agnew. They are to appear before Judge Gus A. Schuldt at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. Inasmuch as Judge Schuldt already has acted in the case of Merritt O. Chance, foreman of the July grand jury, it is expected that he will order the two jurors to testify. There may be a difference, however, inasmuch as Chance began his testimony and refused to continue to submit to cross-examination by defense attorneys. Neither Agnew nor Davidson have given any testimony.

James T. Scott, another member of the grand jury, was a witness. Scott took the stand without an effort to evade testifying. Obviously Scott still subscribed to the spirit and letter of the grand jury report criticizing Shelby and Kelly. Scott said that Inspector Shelby had admitted before the grand jury that the police had "bungled" the McPherson investigation. Shelby had told the jury, Scott said, that the District Police Department was not equipped to do the things which European police did. But Inspector Shelby did tell the jury that, in his opinion, Mrs. McPherson committed suicide, Scott said.

Mr. Scott disclosed that members of the grand jury had made several inspections to determine whether Robert J. Allen, former policeman, could have seen a man escaping from the McPherson apartment window as Mr. Allen had sworn he did. Mr. Scott was not a member of the party of jurors told about by Mr. Chance. Apparently from the testimony of various jurors, many of them made a personal visit to the Park Lane Apartments to determine for themselves if Mr. Allen could have seen a man escaping over the one-story roof adjoining the McPherson apartment. That statement was the primarily important thing in Mr. Allen's story.

Mr. Scott's testimony was used by the prosecution to support the charge that Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly had sought to influence the testimony of witnesses before the grand jury. Mr. Scott said that Roy Heavrin had told the jury that Mr. Kelly had told him to "forget it; there was another man and woman fighting in the apartment at the time," when Mr. Heavrin had sought to emphasize the importance of hearing quarreling voices on the night Mrs. McPherson died.

That was the substance of the conversation as repeated to the grand jury by Mr. Heavrin, Mr. Scott said. He admitted under cross-examination that both Mr. Allen and Mrs. Heavrin had told different stories to the grand jury on their different appearances, and that the story they told at one time conflicted with that they told at another time. Mr. Scott disclosed his opinion that all the clothing in the McPherson apartment should have been tagged and that all of the furniture should have been marked, and that the police should have drawn diagrams to show the location of every detail of furniture in the place.

The trial will be resumed this morning.

$50,000,000 ALCOHOL PLOT BARED, CLAIM

1,000 Chicago Business Men and Others Alleged to Be in Scheme.

DRY CHIEF MAKES DENIAL

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Three afternoon papers, the Times, Post and News, today state that more than 1,000 local business men, prohibition officials, politicians and bootleggers are under investigation in connection with the purported diversion of $50,000,000 worth of industrial alcohol to illegal channels.

The papers state Alexander Jamie, chief of the Washington prohibition unit, and undercover agents, discovered the alleged gigantic conspiracy after six months work.

Jamie told the Associated Press: "As far as I know there isn't any particular truth to the report." District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson denied it in part.

"What there is to it is before the grand jury and can not be discussed," he said. "But I can say that what there is to it is nothing at all like the reports."

The investigators were reported to have found that more than 200 business men obtained alcohol withdrawal permits through the influence of politicians, presumably for the preparation of legal products, and that a large percentage of the alcohol was being diverted to bootleggers.

A syndicate, the papers stated, operates all over the Middle West and maintains branches in cities as far distant as New York and Denver, accomplishing diversion through an elaborate system of trick bookkeeping.

Officials of the local prohibition enforcement unit also denied knowledge of the investigation.

High Mexican Official Dies of Heart Disease

Mexico City, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The sudden death of Felipe Canales, under-secretary in the department of the interior and its acting head, today removed one of the outstanding figures in the present Mexican administration from the political scene.

Senor Canales, who was only 34 years old, died of heart disease. He had had charge of the interior department since the Portes Gil government took office a year ago, and his career was marked by many progressive measures. Among them was the fostering of tourist travel from the United States to Mexico. He was president of the national tourist commission.

Campbell Is Ready To Quit His Post

Johnston B. Campbell, Interstate Commerce Commissioner, has notified President Hoover that he is ready to quit, it was learned yesterday. His resignation will be accepted when a successor has been selected.

Mr. Campbell was appointed to the commission by President Harding in May, 1921, soon after the law was amended providing for eleven instead of nine members of that body. He had been a commerce lawyer, practicing here and at Spokane, Wash., before he was nominated for the Government job. It is understood that he desires to return to the practice of his profession, and will do so when President Hoover finds some one to take his place on the commission.

Mr. Campbell's first appointment extended to December 31, 1924. He was reappointed and his present term expires in 1931. He was appointed to represent the Northwestern States.

Mr. Campbell was born in Minnesota, August 5, 1868. During the World War he was a member of the Portland District traffic committee of the United States Railway Commission.

Mississippi Flood Work Needed, Says Ransdell

(Associated Press.)

Emphasizing that the Federal Government has no right to jeopardize the lives and property of nearly 2,000,000 citizens of the Mississippi Valley, Senator Ransdell (Democrat), Louisiana, appealed last night in a radio address for completion of the Mississippi flood control project.

Ransdell said that "such a piecemeal policy, as has prevailed in the past, must no longer be tolerated."

$1,000 Reward for Man Who Sewed Dog's Lips

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Rewards for information leading to arrest of the person who sewed up the mouth of a small dog and released the animal to starve to death had mounted to more than $1,000 tonight, the Humane Society announced.

The dog, found behind a hospital, was killed by the Humane Society with a painless injection because of its weakened condition. The reward fund mounted hourly all day, amounts ranging from 50 cents to $100 being pledged by persons who telephoned the society's office.

Cruelty to animals under a law passed by the last legislature carries a penalty ranging from a fine of $50 or three months in jail to a three-year penitentiary sentence.

The dog's mouth was sewed shut with eight stitches of strong white cord. Robert F. Sellar, secretary of the Humane Society, expressed belief the deed was done by some one annoyed by the dog.

TUNNEY HEART-BALM SUIT TO BE DROPPED

Mrs. Fogarty Signs Pact to Let $500,000 Case Die by Default.

BOXER WANTS JUDGMENT

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty, divorcee, of Fort Worth, Tex., and New York City, signed today through her counsel a stipulation that her $500,000 breach of promise suit against James J. (Gene) Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world, should be decided in court tomorrow in favor of Tunney.

Cloaked in legal phraseology, the stipulation set forth that a motion for a judgment on her suit and Tunney's cross-complaint would be uncontested in Superior Court in Bridgeport tomorrow, and that an injunction restraining her from ever prosecuting a similar claim should issue against her. Col. Lewis Field signed the stipulation for Mrs. Fogarty here today.

Indications that the suit, filed in Bridgeport last May while the former champion was abroad with his wife, the former Polly Lauder, of Greenwich, Conn., was about to collapse came last Friday when Frank L. Wilder, of Mrs. Fogarty's counsel, asked the court for permission to quit the case as her representative.

Suit Withdrawal Authorized.

After it had been granted he announced receipt of a letter from the woman authorizing a withdrawal of the action.

Tunney's counsel, Homer S. Cummings, would not listen to a withdrawal, insisting on a judgment of the merits of the claim. He filed a motion for a judgment which will be argued tomorrow before Judge Carl Foster. If Judge Foster grants the motion, which, in view of the stipulation it seems likely he will, the victory will be Tunney's.

Such a judgment would uphold his denal of her allegations that he promised to marry her in Hot Springs, Ark., in 1925, and his contentions that she prosecuted the claim solely to traduce his character and extort money.

Another Case Still Pends.

Gene, however, still would face a $500,000 alienation of affections suit filed by the woman's husband, John S. Fogarty, once a Forth Worth plumber. Counsel for both sides, however, have held conferences giving rise to reports that this action also may be ended.

At present Mr. and Mrs. Tunney are at the Lauder home in Greenwich. He returned from Italy a month ago.

Mr. Cummings said, in a telephone conversation that he would argue the motion for a judgment tomorrow, and that "he confidently expected it to be granted."

In the cross complaint Tunney said that Mrs. Fogarty had threatened to bring suit against him just before his fights with Jack Dempsey in Chicago and with Tom Heeney and that she had been paid "$1 and other valuable considerations" for a release on all her claims.

The "$1 and other valuable considerations" has been variously reported as amounting to between $35,000 and $50,000.

Canada Has Cash for Loan.

Ottawa, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Charles Dunning, Canada's new minister of finance, told a radio audience tonight that the Dominion would redeem in cash a loan of $20,000,000 peyable on February 1.

Hoovers Plan Annual Dinner For Judiciary

First of Regular State Functions Set for January 9.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE President and Mrs. Hoover have sent out invitations for the reception to the judiciary to be held at the White House on Thursday evening, January 9. Because of the changes made necessary by the period of mourning for the late Secretary of War, Mr. James W. Good, this will be the first of the annual series of state functions at the White House except for the reception on New Year's Day, the diplomatic reception and the Cabinet dinner having been put off until later in the season.

Christmas has been a season of festivity for the President and Mrs. Hoover, with the children of their official aids and their intimate friends as the bright particular stars of a series of parties. And on Monday evening there will be a young people's party at the White House, presumably a dance, for contemporaries of the President and Mrs. Hoover's son, Mr. Allan Hoover, who is their holiday guest.

With the President and Mrs. Hoover's dinner tonight, the official entertaining for Senor Don Pasqual Ortiz Rubio, president-elect of Mexico, and Senora de Rubio will reach a brilliant climax. The interchange of calls between the President of the United States, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, and the president-elect of Mexico, accompanied by Senora de Rubio, gave a highly official aspect to the reception of Senor and Senora de Rubio in Washington yesterday, for traditionally the President only returns the calls of royalty or of the actual heads of friendly governments.

Prior to this Senor and Senora de Rubio were entertained informally at luncheon at the Mexican Embassy, with some of the group of officials who had met them at the station.

Last evening the president-elect was a guest at a dinner given by Mr. Dwight W. Morrow, United States Ambassador to Mexico, who entertained at the Carlton for a group of sixteen men. This was a "black-tie dinner." Should the United States Ambassador to Mexico entertain in Mexico it would be an official function, but in the United States he has no official rank, and the dinner last night had the aspect of private hospitality.

Mrs. Morrow is expected in Washington today from her home at Englewood, N. J., presumably to attend the White House dinner tonight.

Miss Ruth Gullion, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Allan Gullion, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Army, Navy and Marine Country Club for her guest, Miss Marjorie Maize, of California. Others in the company were Mrs. William Cranford, Mrs. Joseph Horgan, Miss Ida Clagett, Miss Mary Bowie Clagett, Miss Kay Donlan, Miss Jane Crosby, Miss Beverley Rittenhouse, Miss Adelaide Henry, Miss Lilla LaGarde, Miss Frederika Williford, Miss Sarah Shallenberger, the Misses Truby, Miss Betty Griffin, Miss Louise Hickman, Miss Frances Hill, Miss Jean Stewart, Miss Margaret Cranford, Miss Cynthia Hill and Miss Atha Gullion.

The District of Columbia Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will entertain the Confederate veterans with a Christmas tree party at Confederate Memorial Hall, 1322 Vermont avenue, tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock. There will be gifts for each veteran and a program of Christmas music has been arranged.

The committee on arrangements includes Mrs. Maud Howell Smith, chairman; Mrs. Albion W. Tuck, Mrs. Claude N. Bennett, Mrs. Garnett Lee, Mrs. Fred L. Volland, Mrs. Horace Whittaker, Miss Bertie Packett, Mrs. Gabriel Edmonston, Mrs. Oscar McWhorter and Mrs. Edward Wood.

A beautiful program of Christmas music was given at the Arts Club last evening by the Tuesday Evening Music Club, of which Mrs. Florence Howard is the director. The guests of honor were Miss Evelyn Scott, violinist; Miss Catherine Benson, pianist, and Miss Donna Taggart, accompanist. The Christmas choruses given by the club included: "Hail, Ye Time of Holidays," by Branscombe; "Jesu Bambine," by Pietro Yon; "The Children at the Manger," old Dutch carol; a Christmas rondeau of traditional air, to which the words were written by Glenn Madison Brown, a member of the Arts Club; "Mary's Cradle Song," by Max Reger; "Break Forth, Oh, Beauteous Heavenly Light," by Bach. The instrumental trios included old English songs, dances and carols.

The members of the Tuesday Evening Music Club are: Miss Margaret Allison, Miss Marjorie Brockett, Miss Florence Bugbee, Miss Virginia Cooper, Miss June Doorley, Miss Clara Forbes, Miss Adelaide Harbers, Miss Ina Holtscheiter, Miss Laura Lyle, Miss Grace Brown, Miss Ruth Godfrey, Miss Cecile Littlefield, Miss Florence Burdick, Miss Elizabeth Baugh, Miss Winifred Royle, Miss Helen Williams, Miss Helen Neumeyer, Miss Jean Fera, Miss Reba Will, Miss Catherine Cross, Miss Dorothy Lingrell, Miss Lillian Llewellyn and Miss Frances Tucker.

Former United States Minister to China, Mr. Charles R. Crane, is convalescing from a minor operation at Roosevelt Hospital in New York. He will leave the hospital in another week and return to his home at 655 Park avenue.

Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews will be hostess at a tea to be given on Saturday at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Gardiner Philip Orme will be at home informally tomorrow at her home on Massachusetts avenue, and on Saturday throughout the season.

Senator and Mrs. McNary To Entertain Vice President.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, will be the guest in whose honor Senator and Mrs. Charles L. McNary will give a dinner on January 14 in the Chinese room of the Mayflower.

The British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard entertained at luncheon yesterday when their guests were the Chief Justice and Mrs. William Howard Taft, the Spanish Ambassador, Senor Don Alejandro Padilla y Bell; the Minister of Hungary and Countess Szechenyi, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, sr., of New York, who is visiting Count and Countess Szechenyi; Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, the Counselor of the Embassy, Dr. Ronald Campbell; the first Secretary of the Embassy, and Mrs. Terence Shone, Mrs. Younghusband, of Philadelphia; the third Secretary of the Embassy, Mr. Michael Wright, and Miss Gytha Stourton.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur and the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, will be joint hosts at a reception on New Year's Day in the ballroom of the Mayflower from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Gov. and Mrs. Burgess Are Dinner Guests.

The Governor of the Panama Canal and Mrs. Harry Burgess were the guests for whom Representative and Mrs. Maurice Thatcher entertained at dinner last night at the Willard, the Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro being among the guests. The others in the company were the Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Hyde, Representative and Mrs. Burton L. French, Representative and Mrs. Henry W. Temple, Representative R. Walton Moore, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Representative and Mrs. William Elmer Evans, Mr. Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service, and Mrs. Albright; Col. and Mrs. William Preston Wooten, Dr. Henry S. Wellcome, of London; Mrs. Grace T. Butler, of Kentucky, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Henry.

From 1910 to 1913 Representative Thatcher was the Civil Governor of the Canal Zone and served as a member of the Panama Canal Commission while the canal was under construction. Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher visited Panama last summer and renewed old acquaintances. The dinner last evening was given in the Cabinet Room and the table was charmingly decorated with pink roses and stevia in silver vases.

Dr. and Mrs. John Foote entertained last evening at the Washington Club with a small dance for their daughter, Polly, who is home from college for the holidays.

Miss Elizabeth Trescot has canceled her supper party for Sunday night at the Dower House, on account of serious illness in the family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Craig Peacock and Master Jack Peacock have gone to Lake Placid Club, New York, for the winter sports.

Guest Artist at Pan-American

MME. MARGUERITE d'ALVAREZ, who will sing at the concert at the Pan-American Union December 30. She is a sister of Senor J. Alvarez de Buenavista, of the Peruvian Embassy.

Peruvian Diva Arrives Today For Musicale

Concert Is Arranged by Pan-American Union for Monday.

Mme. Marguerite d'Alvarez, who will be the guest artist at the concert of Latin-American music at the Pan-American Union on Monday night, will arrive in town today and will be at the Mayflower. This gifted Peruvian contralto, who has sung with success in most of the capitals of Europe and America, is a sister of Mr. J. Alvarez de Beunavista, first secretary of the Peruvian Embassy. This popular diplomat is known here as "Senor Beunavista," it being the "custom of the country" to use the last name and drop what goes before, but actually Buenavista is his mother's name, used after the surname in the Latin fashion.

A glamorous person, who has beauty as well as great musical gifts, Mme. d'Alvarez's appearance here is awaited with much interest and large groups from diplomatic and official society have accepted the invitation of the Pan-American Union for Monday evening. The concert was postponed from an earlier date because of official mourning for the late Secretary of War, but most of the guests who had planned to attend then will be present at what will be the most important event in the long series of concerts of Latin-American music arranged by the Pan-American Union.

The program, with Mr. Edward Hart as accompanist, will be heard all over the world, for it is to be sent out over short wave channels as well as over the usual national broadcast arranged for Pan-American Union concerts.

Capt. J. F. Moriarty Is Capital Visitor.

Former Representative and Mrs. J. H. Smithwick have as their guest for the holiday season, their son-in-law, Capt. J. F. Moriarty, U. S. M. C. Mrs. Moriarty, who has been ill here at the home of her parents for the past several months, is now recuperating and will remain for a longer visit.

Grew, on their arrival from Europe.

Mrs. Henry Sturgess, daughter of George Meredith, English novelist, has arrived from England and is the guest of Mrs. Sidney Cloman.

Naval Couple Entertains at Brilliant Ball

Many Guests at Event Given in Honor of Miss Freyer.

Capt. and Mrs. Frank B. Freyer were hosts at a brilliant ball last evening at the Mayflower for their daughter, Miss Engracia Freyer, who made her debut at a tea given at her home on December 10. This was the climax of a day crowded with festivities for the debutantes, and many of those who had attended one or another of the parties earlier in the day came together at the ball.

Capt. and Mrs. Freyer's guests, who numbered about 500, included, besides the younger group, a goodly representation from diplomatic and official society, with a large Navy contingent. Capt. Freyer had come from Philadelphia, where his ship is stationed, to be present at the ball.

Miss Freyer, who is slim and dark, was an engaging picture in a gown of yellow satin made in picture style, with tight bodice and full skirt. She carried an armful of talisman roses. The young hostess was assisted by Miss Becky Bratton, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Leslie Bratton, formerly of Washington.

M. T. Amedeo Bruni, who arrived from Paris to spend the holidays with Mme. Bruni, will stay until the latter part of January. They will entertain extensively for several foreign guests in that period.

Miss Joanne Shaw Here for Sojourn With Mrs. Bird.

Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird has arrived in Washington from her home in East Walpole, Mass., accompanied by her granddaughter, Miss Joanne Shaw, who will be a welcome addition to the debutante group. Miss Shaw will have no formal presentation, but Mrs. Bird is planning a number of small dinners and luncheons in her honor and she will undoubtedly be feted by Mrs. Bird's many friends in Washington. They will be at the Mayflower while in town.

Mrs. Bird, whose late husband was once Governor of Massachusetts, has long been influential in Republican party politics and she was one of the four women chosen by the late President Harding to serve in an advisory capacity with the conference on the limitation of armament held in Washington a few years ago. It is at the special wish of Miss Shaw's mother, who died within the year, that Mrs. Bird is bringing her granddaughter to Washington for a season of festivity. Miss Shaw is the daughter of Mr. Louis Agassiz Shaw, of Boston. She is an unusually beautiful girl and an expert horsewoman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Philip Hill will be at home on New Year's Day from 3 until 5 o'clock at their home on Franklin street in Baltimore, invitations to attend having been inscribed on the Christmas cards which they sent out. Through all the period that Mr. Hill was in Congress, Mr. and Mrs. Hill kept their home in Baltimore, the "old Carroll house" which came to Mrs. Hill from her forebears, ready for occasional use. And now that they are out of public life, their official residence is Baltimore, although they have their Washington house in running order and spend much time here. One New Year's Day, if memory serves, Mr. and Mrs. Hill kept open house in Baltimore early in the afternoon—and then motored over to Washington to receive here later on.

Admiral Grayson to Act As Horse Show Judge.

Among the judges acting at the Riding and Hunt Club's horse show Saturday evening will be Admiral Cary T. Grayson, whose keen interest in horsemanship prompted an invitation recently from Mr. W. T. Waggoner, of Texas, asking Admiral Grayson to officially dedicate the fine new race track near Fort Worth, a track costing $2,000,000 and alleged to be the finest in the country. Admiral Grayson has just returned from Texas.

Assisting in the judges' stand will be Mr. R. M. Luttrell, of Delaplain, Va., and Mr. William Osbourne, of Charlottesville, Va.

Prizes have been donated by the Cuban Ambassador, Senor de Ferrara; Col. Robert M. Thompson, Mr. Wilton Lambert, Mr. Melvin Hazen, Maj. Charles Patton, Mr. Charles Drayton and Mr. Hugh Legare.

Most brilliant of the festivities of yesterday afternoon was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilmer Bolling to introduce their daughter, Miss Clara Lutz Bolling. This was held at the Mayflower, with dancing in the ballroom.

At the same time Mrs. Evans, wife of Representative William E. Evans, of California, was entertaining at a tea dance at the hotel for her daughter, Miss Catherine Evans and in compliment to Miss Junia Culbertson, debutante daughter of the United States Ambassador to Chile and Mrs. William S. Culbertson. Mrs. Evans was assisted by Mrs. Culbertson and Mrs. Homer Hoch, Miss Jean Hoch assisting Miss Evans.

The death of Mrs. Miles Poindexter has caused the Chevy Chase branch of the League of American Pen Women to cancel plans for a table at the breakfast at the Willard, Saturday. For the same reason the branch president announces the club will forego any group activities for a month.

Miss Florence Ward Hostess at Breakfast.

Miss Florence E. Ward, principal agriculturist, extension service, Department of Agriculture, and chairman of the national clubhouse committee of the National League of American Pen Women, is sponsor for the National Board table of the league at the celebrity breakfast, tomorrow at the Willard Hotel, at 12 o'clock. Miss Ward will have as her guests Miss Agnes Ellen Harris, dean of women at the University of Alabama, niece of Senator William J. Harris of Georgia, and Miss Florence Freer of New York. Other members of the board at the table will be Mrs. Faber Stevenson, Mrs. Eugene E. Collister, Mrs. Charles W. Allen, who is the guest of Mrs. Lily R. Hunt, and Mrs. G. G. White. Also seated at this table will be Miss Grace E. McKinstry, nationally known artist, particularly in the realm of portrait painting, who will entertain Mrs. Frances Clapp Hall.

THE larger figure has dignity and appeal that is entirely lacking in the flapper figure. But the woman with the larger figure must bear in mind there are many, many styles that are most unbecoming as far as she is concerned. But there are equally as many suitable models, for the designers today are spending much time and great effort to create models with slenderizing effects.

The deep French V outline, as model sketched, that combines with vertical line created by plaits in skirt, has a marvelous effect in slenderizing the figure. Wide crushed girdle secures important flat hips.

Style No. 8146 is just about perfect, a charming semisports type that meets everyday requirements. It comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48-inches bust. In the medium size, it is made with 3½ yards of 40-inch material with 5-8 yard of 10-inch contrasting.

It adapts itself to all the new season's fabrics, as new soft shade brown satin crepe, using the reverse side for vestee, cuffs and belt, black canton crepe with eggshell silk crepe, feather-weight tweed in yellow-beige and brown tones, wool crepe in bottle green, flat silk crepe in dahlia-purple, printed silk crepe in tweed pattern in deep maroon red tones.

Silver Years

"After the golden years of youth, come those of fine silver."

By GERTRUDE S. TROWBRIDGE.

WE are urged, "Play your part nobly!" Perhaps we would do better at it if we knew exactly what role, among the many we play, is the most important.

It isn't only a cat that apparently has nine lives, for we are all so versatile and so curious and so willing that we flit from occupation to occupation like a bee on flowers.

A man starts his day being an athlete, with his daily dozen, running from that to the acts of a barber. His profession makes another man of him and when he sneaks off to some hobby, in between serious things he probably is an artist at something. He is art or literary critic for those less knowing and he is spurred to read feet of books when his student role is called. Very likely he is a pillar of the church with other exhibitions of character, and sometimes he is political orator and philanthropist with husband-father under all the other things he plays. Besides, think of his social demands!

All this seems possible for many persons, and if the matter ended there the mind wouldn't be bothered. It is the things which we long to do and haven't time for that play havoc with our feelings and give a sense of frustration. Preoccupation with those hopeless yearnings often prevents perfection in what time allows us.

The same puzzlement of mind must have been among the friends of Aurelius or he would not have written:

"Occupy thyself with few things . . . if thou wouldst be tranquil . . . Do what is necessary, and whatever the reason of the animal requires and as it requires. For this brings not only the tranquillity that comes from doing well, but also that which comes from doing few things. For the greatest part of what we say and do being unnecessary, if a man takes this away, he will have more leisure and less uneasiness. Accordingly, on every occasion, a man should ask himself, "Is this one of the unnecessary things? Now a man should take away not only unnecessary acts, but also unnecessary thoughts, for thus superfluous acts will not follow after."

ANGLO-AMERICAN LOCARNO.

Japanese statesmen, who so frequently obtain advance information on international matters, profess to foresee an Anglo-American Locarno pact become one of the possibilities of the London naval limitation conference. A dispatch to the New York Times from Tokyo contains the following:

> An extremely important potential development of this idea (Franco-Italian Locarno) would be an Atlantic Locarno, in which England and America might guarantee each other against a violator of the Kellogg pact.
> Such an arrangement would open the way to that reduction in Anglo-American parity figures at which Japan's policy is aiming and receive Japan's benevolent support.

The Locarno pact idea is, on its face, the essence of simplicity. With respect to France and Germany, for example, each of these nations is assured of the military support of Great Britain in resisting aggression. The British government is pledged to go to war on the side of the nation which is attacked, and Locarno wars are excluded from the purview of the Kellogg antiwar treaty.

In conformity with the Japanese forecast, the application of the Locarno doctrine to Great Britain and the United States would mean that America would pledge itself to go to war on the side of the British whenever a nation or group of nations violated the Kellogg pact as against Great Britain.

Conversely, Great Britain would be bound to go to war in support of the United States in the event of an attack upon it. As Great Britain and the United States would be the judges respecting violations of the Kellogg pact, acting through the medium of the world court or otherwise, there could arise no situation where a violation of the pact could be anything but a hostile move against Anglo-American policy. Obviously no action by a nation or group of nations in furtherance of Anglo-American policy would be construed by Great Britain and America as violating the pact.

With Japan included in the arrangement, there would be Locarno pledges binding Great Britain to go to war with Japan against the United States, or with the United States against Japan, according to circumstances. America, in turn, might be pledged to go to war with Japan against Great Britain or vice versa, and Japan might be obliged to go to war against America or Great Britain, according to another set of circumstances. All these contingencies become matters of speculation in the light of the Tokyo forecast.

The inclusion of Japan in a three-cornered Anglo-American-Japanese combination against prospective Kellogg-pact violators is chiefly interesting as an advance study of the psychological effect which the London conference is producing. The same thought applies to the suggestion of an Anglo-American Locarno. Presumably no patriotic American, and surely no American statesman, is ready to give serious consideration to this or any other form of alliance involving the people of the United States.

But despite this, the suggestion of an Anglo-American defensive alliance involving the United States, Great Britain and Japan is apparently to be given serious consideration in Tokyo and perhaps in London. Prime Minister MacDonald has sought to encourage the idea of an Anglo-American entente intended to operate against a violator of the Kellogg pact. The carrying out of any such program would mean one thing only to the statesmen of Europe and Japan. It would mean to them the pooling of naval forces to support a "joint policy" decided upon by them. The possibilities of the scheme are vast and far-reaching. All that is necessary is to convince Americans that their best interest lies in an entente by which Great Britain and the United States would dominate the world and keep it in order.

PRESIDENT ORTIZ RUBIO.

The Government of the United States has welcomed Pascual Ortiz Rubio, President-elect of Mexico, and Senora de Ortiz Rubio, with every official courtesy and ceremony, and the American people welcome them with all cordiality as representatives of a neighboring people with whom friendship and understanding are especially desirable. Their visit is timely. A year ago President-elect Hoover was visiting Latin America as an emissary of friendship and good will. President-elect Ortiz Rubio is similarly an emissary of friendship and good will, and the Nation takes pleasure in according him a welcome no less hearty than that which the South American nations bestowed on President-elect Hoover and his party.

Mr. Ortiz Rubio is about to become the head of a nation with natural resources of untold value, and with potentialities for development that stagger the imagination. That that nation has not, perhaps, progressed in company with the family of nations is due to the fact that it has long been torn with dissension and internal strife. There is an ardent hope, however, that Mexico now has reached a point where, under the civilian rule of Ortiz Rubio, it will enjoy internal harmony.

Americans welcome the opportunity to meet and know the man in whose hands rests the immediate future of Mexico. The official honors that are bestowed upon him testify to the regard in which this Nation holds its neighbor to the South.

THE SEARCH FOR EIELSON.

Efforts to locate Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, the lost Arctic fliers, have taken a sudden spurt seven weeks after they disappeared. Soviet Russian authorities have sent Semyon Shestakov, who recently made a successful flight from Moscow to New York, to command a Russian rescue party. Three powerful cabin-type airplanes have been taken to Seward, Alaska, to participate in the search under direction of experienced Canadian fliers. These fresh rescue forces have a clew to work on in the report that traders and natives in the vicinity of North Cape, Siberia, heard Eielson's plane circling overhead, evidently in trouble.

Hopes for rescuing the famous Arctic flier and his pilot were growing dim until these new movements got under way. Even now it appears that prospects for their safe return are not bright. The lost plane carried provisions for only 30 days when it flew out from Alaska on November 9 to take off persons on the ship Nanuk, which is icebound off the northeast Siberian coast. Some explorers have lived for long periods on the game and fish of the Arctic, and the doughty Eielson can be expected to survive wherever it is humanly possible. But the fliers may have wandered far off the course they intended to follow, and nothing is known as to how they landed.

The possibility of finding the fliers alive diminishes every day. This being true, it is well to ask why seven weeks have elapsed before a systematic search is made. Alaskan pilots have been making strenuous efforts to find Eielson and Borland, but they have been handicapped by inadequate equipment and airplanes not suitable for that purpose. Had the rescue expeditions which are now at work been sent to the north weeks ago, the fliers might now have been rescued, or their fate revealed. The search ought to be pushed until all possibility of rescue has disappeared. There has been too much delay already.

AN EXECUTIVE BUILDING.

The fire in the President's office Tuesday night has brought forcibly to the attention of the country the need for an executive office building. The White House was intended for a residence. The executive offices that were gutted by fire are totally inadequate.

The time is ripe for formulation of plans for an executive structure. The White House should be restored to its original function as the official residence of the President. The Chief Executive can not be expected to sponsor this improvement himself, but while the House of Representatives is providing a fine new office structure for use of its members, it should also provide for the President and his staff. A spacious executive building in keeping with the dignity of the United States should be included in the present building program.

George Washington is the only American statesman who ever planned adequately for the future. Federal building programs are executed without sufficient consideration for future needs. In making plans for a new executive building it is not sufficient to contemplate needs 50 or 60 years hence. A noble structure, which will furnish dignified and ample office quarters for the Chief Executive and his staff for all time, should be erected. It should include appropriate facilities for international conferences, for Cabinet meetings and for entertainment of distinguished foreign guests. Nothing less than this would harmonize with the buildings that are being provided for the various departments, the Supreme Court and members of Congress.

Location of the proposed new executive building is important. It is desirable that the President's office should be close to the White House. A site bordering on Lafayette Square should be acquired for this purpose.

The easiest plan would be simply to restore the burned quarters and compel the President to remain in this crowded, unsafe office. But the country expects its Chief Executive to be properly housed. While public attention is concentrated upon the issue Congress should make provision for a spacious executive building.

QUARRELING OVER ENFORCEMENT.

In view of the furore created by his Christmas Eve statement, no one need doubt that Senator Borah's Christmas was a merry one. Dr. Doran responded to the senator's sweeping indictment with an equally sweeping denial, and Attorney General Mitchell jumped to the fore with a defense of the Prohibition Bureau and the Government in general.

No new light is thrown upon the prohibition problem as a result of the incident. Senator Borah's charges lost most of their effect because of the fact that they were too sweeping and too general. "Prohibition never can be enforced with the present personnel," he said. Inasmuch as it is generally agreed that the present personnel is more zealously interested in genuine enforcement than any that has held office heretofore, the assertion does come seriously near to saying that prohibition never can be enforced.

Attorney General Mitchell states that more can be accomplished toward better enforcement when Congress is ready to approve legislation carrying out the administration's recommendations for more adequate machinery. But what are the recommendations? So far as the public is aware, no recommendations have as yet been made to Congress.

Conditions now are better than they ever have been. Dr. Doran is an able, conscientious prohibition chief and he is proceeding on the laudatory principle that enforcement can better be attained by getting at the big fellows than by slapping hip pockets and breaking into homes. If Dr. Doran is accorded full cooperation, he will enforce prohibition so far as it is enforceable.

The British government can't seem to find a purchaser for the Firth of Forth naval base. Perhaps after next month's affair the market will be improved.

A golfer equipped with a full complement of clubs was beaten by an Arizonan who played with a baseball bat. Clubs are major handicaps in golf.

Now that Christmas shopping is over there is only one bill that we haven't received, and that's the tariff bill.

THE DOG AND THE RABBIT

From the New York Herald Tribune.

It is a most evident fact to any one who has thought about it that in two of the three factors of sea power the United States is immensely outclassed by Great Britain. Where naval bases are concerned we have very few, and where the merchant marine is concerned we are in a ratio of one to two. We have not complete equality with Great Britain in auxiliary naval vessels, but there is the possibility that this will be attained at London.

In order to realize how weak we are in merchant vessels it seems pertinent at this time to glance at some of the Shipping Board figures. They show that the United States has the second largest fleet of ocean-going merchant vessels, with a total tonnage of 9,673,627, and that the British are first with a total tonnage of 17,683,755. Of ships displacing 15,000 tons and over, the British have 85 and we have 13. As fourteen knots is likely to be the usual convoy speed in future wars, it is interesting to observe that we have 106 vessels capable of a speed of fourteen knots or over and that the British have 445 vessels of this class. Large, fast ships can, of course, be converted into cruisers carrying 6-inch guns in a number suited to their individual design, whereas smaller and slower ships continue the importation of those essential materials which are the sinews of war.

What is the outlook for the attainment of equality in this highly important division of sea power? How long, for instance, would it take us, building at our present maximum rate, to catch up with the British? The answer to this question, based on the theory that no old yards are reopened or that no new yards are started, is perhaps best found in the fact that the present yearly output of American shipyards is about 1,000,000 gross tons for passenger ships, combination ships, tankers and smaller vessels. According to the last Lloyd's, Great Britain has under construction at present 1,444,355 tons. The real answer to the question of "How long?" is that we are in the position of a small dog chasing the British rabbit, with the rabbit gaining all the time. In other words, Great Britain will be gaining yearly and at infinity will be much farther ahead of us than she is now. If we are to catch up—and we should catch up—we must increase our building capacity.

It may be asked how this affects the London conference, which will consider only one part of one of the factors of sea power, i. e., the fleet in relation to auxiliary vessels. Merchant vessels are, of course, no subject for international limitation. But the relative strength of a nation in merchant ships has a profound influence upon its fleet. If we have fleet equality with Britain there is still the merchant fleet disparity. If we were, say, to consent to the abolition of large vessels, be they capital ships or 10,000-ton cruisers, this disparity would be strikingly increased even if the British also forswore large war vessels. The difference between the fleet and the merchant vessels would thus become larger and the disadvantage to us would become greater still. As capital ship tonnage goes down the importance of the merchant tonnage goes up. We should, therefore, be extremely reluctant to consider weakening ourselves in capital ships or large cruisers so long as our merchant fleet is where it is.

If we had an adequate merchant fleet it is easy to see how much simpler international negotiations would become, because we would then start on a more nearly similar basis with Great Britain than we do now. From the standpoint of peace, therefore, a merchant fleet is desirable. From the standpoint of utility in time of war and from the standpoint of secure prosperity in time of peace, the value of an adequate merchant fleet is inestimable.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A WINTER MEMORY.

On many a cold and bitter day
As snugly I lay dozin',
I used to hear my father say:
"The water pipes are frozen.
Get up! Get up, my little chap,
We've got to thaw the kitchen tap."

With water hot we would anoint
The pipes exposed to weather
Or place a lamp beneath each joint,
And laboring together
'Till hands and knees were numb and sore
The plumbing system we'd explore.

The house is warm, the pipes run free,
Oh happy son and daughter,
However cold the nights may be
We're never out of water.
I've never had to shout: "My lad!
Get up! Get up and help your dad!"

Yet when return the winds that blow
With every bleak December
Those hardships of the long ago
I joyously remember.
In that one happy memory
My father oft comes back to me.

Oh, 'tis from hardships which we share
Grow memories we treasure,
Love deeper sinks its roots in care
Than in the soil of pleasure.
If but our water pipes should freeze
You, too, might own glad memories.

Why Wreck the Ship and Drown the Crew to Hurt the Captain?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE purpose of government is to serve the people.

The purpose of law is to make the will of the people effective.

When any law does injury to the people, the obvious duty of the government is to repeal or amend it without delay.

Years ago, when big business was predatory and had no conscience, competition was strangled by unfair and illegal methods and monopoly gave license to pick the public's pockets.

There was urgent need of a law to curb pirates and protect the people from extortionists. The law was passed and the trusts were "busted."

Now conditions have changed.

A corporation is a group of stockholders, and the stockholders are the people.

And giant corporations are essential to the continued prosperity of the people.

America no longer provides a sufficient market for her own products. She must sell abroad or curtail production.

The effort to sell goods abroad brings America into competition with European manufacturers who have similar problems. They also must find alien markets or stop their machinery.

In their effort to win alien markets, these European manufacturers are forming great combines—merging their resources and pooling their capital and brains to reduce operating costs and eliminate wasteful competition.

They can undersell America and capture the markets of the world unless American manufacturers also merge their resources, reduce costs and eliminate waste.

One great corporation, with one great factory, one manager and one office force, can manufacture brooms more cheaply than ten small companies with ten managers and ten factories and ten crews.

To duplicate effort is to duplicate cost, and the public pays the bill.

As the competition that is the life of trade, it is abundantly afforded by Europe.

To prevent mergers in America while Europe merges is to cut the throat of American industry.

The effort to prevent mergers is an effort to injure American buyers and American investors.

The recent stock market crash hurt millions. These millions compose the "trusts" that demagogues denounce and persecute.

To hobble American business with unnecessary laws is to injure the common people whose surplus is invested in America.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THAT RAILROAD SCRAMBLING REPORT.

It's a wise president that knows his own railroad. The Interstate Commerce Commission has come forth with a plan for combining the country's railroad lines that make a Sam Lloyd puzzle seem like a lesson in elemental spelling.

* * * *

The commission took nine years to arrive at its conclusions, thus setting a new world's record for sustained huddles and proving conclusively that trying to unscramble an egg is still the most difficult trick known to man, commission or beast.

* * * *

The railroad presidents of America took one look at the commission's report and immediately concluded that the members had succumbed to the Yuletide jigsaw puzzle and anagram craze.

* * * *

It is now regarded as an open question whether the commission arrived at its ideas by discussion or by blindfold test.

* * * *

It is time for caution in traveling. When you think you're going South on the Seaboard you may be speeding North on the Boston & Maine and when you think you are dining on the Buffalo & Susquehanna you may discover that within the meaning of the I. C. C. you are asleep in an upper berth on the Kellys Creek & Northwestern, which has been transferred from the New York Central to the Palapsco & Black River branch of the B. & O.

* * * *

When a man walks up to a window for a railroad ticket to Chicago today he doesn't know whether to ask for a seat on the New York, New Haven & Santa Fe, the Boston, Wabash, Erie & Northern Pacific or the Lackawanna, Pennsylvania Central & Southern Chesapeake.

* * * *

After one casual reading of the Interstate Scrambling Commission's suggestions for making railroading more intricate, a drummer walked up to a Wabash ticket-window the other day and asked for two Rock Island Pullman chairs in an Illinois Central parlor-car on the Great Northern line to New Orleans via Hoosac Tunnel & Wilmington line through Penobscot, Me.

* * * *

He made the additional specification that he would like to be called when the train passed through Albany, N. Y., and that he would prefer a breakfast of eggs a la Atterbury with Van Sweringen toast cooked by a chef chosen from the three best cooks on the Moshaussick Valley, Scootic Railway and Genesse & Wyoming lines.

* * * *

Railroad travelers have always found the railroad layouts somewhat puzzling but if the I. C. C. suggestions are adopted even the engineers, firemen and porters will be all balled up. Many an engineer may find himself going to work for the Buckport, Skaneateles & Stony Creek line in the morning and ending up at night on the Hudson & Manhattan tooting a Canadian Pacific whistle in a Boston & Maine locomotive.

* * * *

It's all too intricate for words. Traveling was always hard enough without making it any more difficult. The Interstate Commerce Commission should be sent back into a huddle for nine more years with instructions not to come even then unless sent for.

* * * *

Those boys have got to be suppressed. The next thing you know they'll be ordering a merger of the Erie time table with the Sears Roebuck catalogue and transferring all the asterisks and footnotes in the Pennsylvania time tables to the dinner menus on the Santa Fe trains.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Drunkenness Was Going Out of Fashion When Volstead Act Was Passed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Under the influence of Christmas cheer and with New Year Day approaching my thoughts turn back reflectively to "the good old days." In Washington as well as elsewhere the "flowing bowl" was at this season an important feature in the festivities of many households. Eggnog, the Tom and Jerry, not to mention the heady, hot Scotch, were too often too much in evidence. This refers to many years before the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law. In that day it came to pass that, in Washington at least, public opinion frowned more and more on excessive drinking. "Moral suasion," to use the moss-grown term, began to get in its work. Drunkenness on the street from year to year became less common. By the time the aforesaid amendment and law were adopted we were well along on the road to real temperance.

Whether the present statutory improvement will finally bring better results than that of public opinion is an open question. I hardly think it will. Expert commissions cannot settle the question. At least it must be admitted that whatever indulgence in strong drink by the young formerly occurred in the home was far less deplorable than that of the clandestine flask and the wild party. But this is old stuff, and I am getting away from the gist of this letter, which is to assert that Washington, with its large proportion of law-abiding government workers from the orderly towns and villages of the country, has always been more or less of a model.

OLD TIMER.

Commissions Within Commissions—Law Enforcement Commission's Hard Task.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: Since commissions (alias "Passing the Buck") have become an epidemic in our country and the crisis not in sight, I think it is about time that our Government officials should be attending to the duties for which they were elected or resign.

It seems as if commissions can not be authorized fast enough (and if it keeps up the Government will have to start a farm for the breeding of "lame ducks"), so they are making commissions within commissions. It seems that the Law Enforcement Commission (since the chairman fell off of his pedestal by advocating Al Smith's policies in a letter to Gov. Franklyn D. Roosevelt) has split up into ten commissions, and each one to investigate and report on the subject which was assigned to it.

I see that a few senators (both wet and dry) are getting impatient on account of not having heard any report from them. But "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." Their report will be made when they can convince each other that wet is dry. The tasks the Law Enforcement Commission have to perform make the twelve labors of Hercules look like child's play.

I don't know how long Hercules took to perform his tasks, but anyway, he accomplished something and pleased everybody. But I am afraid their report will be like a Scotch verdict, "Not proven," and will not please anybody.

When in the seventies I was living in Washington, you could not throw a stone without hitting a statesman. But today it would take a hailstorm to find one. H. E. FORD.

Magnolia Springs, Ala., Dec. 22.

Too Much Tinkering With the Constitution Would Destroy Popular Respect for That Charter.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Post, as I understand it, is opposed to indiscriminate amendments to the Constitution of the United States. As a pretext for the airing of glittering generalities by near statesmen and single-track reformers, the Constitution has been manhandled from the beginning. Its genuine, trustworthy friends are those who are on guard to protect it from the interjection of extraneous matter. Americans are proud of their Constitution, and too frequently their very reverence for it causes them to be misled by injudicious thinkers. A case in point is that of the amendment providing for the election of senators by popular vote. Today it is obvious to every one that the new method of electing senators is not better than that originally adopted. It is a question whether it has not been altogether discredited.

This letter is inspired by the remark in a recent Post editorial that ill-advised requests are made of the National Child Labor Committee to launch an active campaign for an amendment to the Federal Constitution. As you say, "the right of protecting children from employment which impairs their health and interferes with their education belongs to the States."

There is no telling how many laudable as well as visionary amendments would be indorsed by a great number of people. But if such amendments are to be adopted from time to time, the Constitution will at last become fopheavy with amendments, and the people will cease to reverence it as whole-heartedly as they have up to the present moment.

FEDERALIST.

A REAL PROBLEM.

The new criminal who honestly resents society's ineffectual efforts at self-protection may be of minor interest to the bored reader, says the Richmond Times Dispatch, but he certainly presents a problem for our penologists. Theirs is becoming a most hazardous occupation. And it is useless to try to explain him and his mad-dog propensities with statistics dealing with overcrowding, uncomfortable living conditions and plain fare; our convicts have never been maintained in the style to which they become accustomed during their periods of affluence. He is the product of a state of mind, and therefore a real problem.

BRIAND SUPPORTED ON GERMAN POLICY

Will Attend Second Hague Conference With Vote of Confidence.

MAKES PEACE APPEAL

Paris, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand will lead the French delegation to the second Hague reparations conference on January 3 with a secure parliamentary majority behind them to support their policy of French rapprochement with Germany and of integral application of the Young plan.

M. Briand in a long speech during discussion of the foreign affairs budget stanchly defended his policy of closer relations with Germany in the Chamber of Deputies today. Eulogizing the achievements in the cause of peace at Locarno and Geneva, he asked Parliament to decide immediately whether it desired him to continue in his work. He added that if it did not some one else could be called in.

The deputies rallied to his support and upheld him by 303 votes to 266.

Warlike Peace Plea.

M. Briand made one of the most warlike political speeches ever pronounced in favor of peace in the French Chamber. He threw down his gauntlet to the opposition and dared them to denounce a policy that was more likely to bring peace and repose to Europe than any they could conceive.

"There is," he said, "an old Roman proverb that says that if you want peace you must prepare for war. This is all wrong.

"I take the responsibility for launching another one, which is, if you want peace prepare for peace. The train for The Hague has not started yet and if you desire to send another crew to The Hague conference just say the word right now."

To Remain at Post.

"It is easier to whip nations into a fighting frenzy by heroic battle cries and the trumpets of turmoil than to make them listen to the words of peace," M. Briand cried fervently.

"The policy of peace is drab and unemotional. But in spite of all bitter attacks and the weight of ridicule I will remain at my post to preach this policy. If need be I will go through my country like a pilgrim telling my people that peace is the best policy. And I hope that my feeble means may find convincing arguments to end wars forever."

Horse Attends Ball In Role of Celebrity

Baltimroe, Dec. 26 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Golden Eagle, a handsome Irish hunter, the prime favorite of a score of hunters in Van Deuzer Burton's stables, made the hit of the evening at a Christmas party at the Burton home, near the Harford Hunt Club, when his master rode him into the ball room.

The guests were all men and women who have chased hte elusive fox over the Harford hills. The host was the only man who wore hunter's costume, including the scarlet coat. Toward midnight, as the orchestra played a dreamy waltz, Mr. Burton rode into the ballroom on Golden Eagle. The hunter stepped proudly to the center of the room and received the plaudits of the company. Mr. Burton's home was formely occupied by Foxhall Keene.

Chest Agency Acts To Check Eviction

Couple, in Arrears With Saved Frmo Court Order by Organization.

Life and the world generally will likely assume a brighter hue today for Irving Higgsand his wife, of 1223 E street southeast.

Things have been breaking badly for months for this couple, the parents of four small children. Ever since las tspring, Mr. Higgs has tried to find employment, but his efforts were generally futile, until about two weeks ago when he got a job as a taxi driver.

In the meantime, the rent on their modest frame dwelling fell in arrears. Because he was unable to pay the rent his landlord secured an eviction order, effectvie today. But the order will not be executed.

When informed about the family's plight, the Community Chest last night communicated with the Catholic Charities organization, and Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, assistant director, stated he would be waiting at the real estate office this morning when it opens, prepared to pay the $45 of delinquent rental.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

WITH the announcement of Senator Borah, of Idaho, that he voted for giving the Philippines their independence once—back in 1916—and would be glad to do so again, more significance has been attached to the drive by such senators as Broussard, of Louisiana, and King, of Utah, to have the United States withdraw from the Far East.

Incidentally, there has been much discussion over the possibilities of a court-martial for Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, retired, because it has been revealed in the testimony before the lobby committee that he talked about the war plans—which all contemplate the United States withdrawing from the islands at once on the outbreak of war, and then look to an ambitious campaign to recapture them.

As a matter of fact, these war plans have been generally known and discussed for a long time in fairly limited circles, not so much because there was any real secrecy about them, for they were known to every military attache of the various embassies and legations in Washington, and are obvious anyhow, but because outside of a limited circle there has been very little interest in the Philippines.

* * * *

SECRETARY OF STATE STIMSON, returning from the islands to head Mr. Hoover's Cabinet, precipitated the present discussion of Philippine independence. He went before the ways and means committee when the tariff was being framed and so effectively opposed putting any limitation on the amount of products which the islands could send into continental United States duty free and, also, any idea of subjecting Philippine imports to a tariff that the various interests which wanted to do something about this were forced to seek another method.

As a result they have been conducting a quiet campaign ever since to grant the islands their independence, ably assisted by the very strong sentimental desire not to hold people as a subject race who were clamoring for independence. It is true that many intelligent Filipinos, realizing the enormous benefits to the people of the islands conferred by American possession have been opposing independence, but apparently the independence agitators, working consistently since the days of Manuel Quezon's presence in Washington during the passage of the Jones act which promised ultimate freedom, have done a very thorough job of convincing the people in the islands that they would be better off free.

In fact the campaign for freedom is still going on. Even since the selfishly inspired drive of the sugar and vegetable oil people started last summer, following Mr. Stimson's fight for the wide open tariff door, there have been maneuvers. The answer of the Filipinos elected at the last election to represent the islands in Washington to any suggestion of limiting Philippine imports into the United States is that they want freedom, and will be glad to pay tariff duties on their products if given it, but that unless they are given independence they should not be subjected to tariff discrimination.

* * * *

THE chief domestic interest which has been turning to the idea of Philippine independence as the solution of its problems is sugar. In every one of the 20 States now producing beet sugar there is a group of people, large in some States, such as Utah and Colorado, small in others, such as Nebraska and Kansas, whose pocketbooks would be benefited if the islands were set free. Cane sugar raisers from Louisiana and Florida have joined in the movement.

But added to all these are the friends of Cuba and those Americans who have put $300,000,000 in the sugar industry in Cuba alone, not to mention some $450,000,000 additional which has been placed in other industries dependent for their prosperity on the sugar industry.

During the tariff battle the low tariff people and the high tariff people in the sugar fight have effected what might almost be called a working agreement on this one point—that they favor Philippine independence.

And to them will be added the vegetable oil, tobacco and half a dozen smaller interests now suffering from Philippine competition.

SEARCH FOR EIELSON HELD IN BY WEATHER

Four Fliers Wait at Nome as Canadians Reach Base at Fairbanks.

SOVIET IS PLANNING AID

vember 9, somewhere between Teller, Alaska, and North Cape, Siberia.

Pilots Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam, who have already reached the fur trading ship Nanuk, frozen in the ice at North Cape, today awaited favorable flying conditions to search along the Siberian coast for their comrades. Pilot Crosson yesterday reported that he had determined the exact location where natives said they had last heard Eielson's plane.

As Pilots Gillam and Crosson, with but a small supply of gasoline, were preparing to fly, Frank Dorbandt and Ed Young had their ships loaded with extra gasoline and supplies for the Nanuk and planes, ready to hop at a moment's notice of even halfway decent flying weather.

Although one Russian plane already has started to aid in the search and two more have been ordered out, little hope was held here they would arrive before another week. More than 4,000 miles of wasteland and ice barriers lie between North Cape and Moscow, whence the leader of the expedition is expected to come.

It was believed that the Canadian fliers would be able to leave Fairbanks tomorrow and be ready to leave Teller by Sunday.

Moscow, Russia, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The Soviet aviation authorities today issued an appeal to the population of the northeastern coast of Siberia to join in the search for the lost American aviators, Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland.

The government has offered a reward of 2,000 rubles (the gold ruble is worth about 50 cents) to any persons indicating the whereabouts of the plane or of the aviators.

The Soviet foreign office announced earlier today that the Russian ace Shestakov would head a rescue expedition composed of several Russian airplanes.

(Associated Press.)

An airplane search through the frozen North for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, missing American aviators, was assured yesterday in messages received from the Soviet government.

Although the United States does not recognize the Soviet, a cablegram was received by Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, from M. Litvinoff, acting foreign commissar at Moscow, which said an expedition would be sent out in a few days to search for the fliers.

Assurance of assistance also was transmitted to the Interior Department through Boris E. Skirvsky, Washington representative of the Soviet Union Information Bureau, who called on Secretary Wilbur. The Interior Secretary appealed to the Soviet government for assistance last Monday through Skirvsky.

Shestakov to Command.

The cablegram to Borah, who sent a direct request for help to Litvinoff on Monday, said the expedition would be commanded by Semyon Shestakov, who recently completed a flight from Moscow to New York.

On this trip Shestakov flew across Siberia and passed near the place where Eielson and Borland are believed to be marooned off the Siberian coast. News of the selection of Shestakov to head the expedition was received gladly because of his familiarity with the territory.

The cablegram added that two airplanes now located at Bay Providence also will participate in the search and that the steamer Stavropol has been instructed on December 18 to send out a dog team in an effort to locate the fliers. No word has been received from the Stavropol on account of a damaged radio set. It can receive messages, but can not send them.

Borah Thanks Soviet.

"The Soviet government will be happy if the purpose of the expedition will be successfully achieved," the cablegram concluded.

Apprised of the word from Moscow tonight that the Soviet authorities had offered a reward to any one finding a clew leading to the locating of the aviators, Senator Borah exclaimed his appreciation.

"They are doing a very fine thing," said the senator, who has been keeping in touch with every development."

Senator Borah sent his request to Moscow after an appeal by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General and now counsel for the Aviation Corporation, of which the Alaskan Airways, headed by Eielson, is a subsidiary.

Recalls Nobile Search.

More than six weeks have elapsed since Eielson and Borland took off from Alaska to aid the icebound fur ship Nanuk, off the Siberian coast. They had adequate rations for four weeks, but it is believed the food could be made to last two months in an emergency.

The plight of the American fliers recalled here the Arctic expedition under Gen. Umberto Nobile, which was lost two months last year after a flight to the North Pole in the dirigible Italia. Some of the survivors were rescued by a Russian ship, while Nobile and a few of his companions were saved by a Swedish expedition. Several perished.

BYRD RADIOS THANKS FOR NEWEST RATING

Explorer, in Message, Says Navy Should Honor 15 of His Aids.

SEES RANK AS YULE GIFT

(Associated Press.)

Four radiograms, sent from a tiny snow-covered hut in the Antractic, were received in Washington yesterday from Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, expressing his gratitude over his recent elevation in rank by Congress.

The two most personal and informal messages were addressed to Speaker Longworth and Chairman Britten, of the House naval committee. Another was received by Senator Swanson, of Virginia, author of the measure to make Byrd the youngest of rear admirals, and the receipt of still another was announced by the Navy Department.

Message to Longworth.

In the radiogram to Longworth, Byrd said he thought it "A mighty fine thing of Congress to rush the bill through to get here in time for Christmas."

The message to Britten was signed "Dick Byrd" and said that he was coming to Washington upon his return to tell you how deeply grateful I am for all you have done for me." It ended with the words, "Warmest regards, old fellow."

Britten said he had messaged Byrd that "Congress so far has recognized only his own efforts and that when he returns he and his colleagues as well will be fittingly honored."

Flag for Swanson.

In thanking Senator Swanson for sponsoring the bill to raise his rank, Byrd said that when he returns to the United States he will bring to the former "A little American flag that I have carried for you on all my flights for the past three years."

The fourth radiogram was addressed to Secretary Adams and was picked up by the Navy's radio station at Tutuila, Samoa, and relayed to Washington. In it Byrd acknowledged announcement of his advancement in rank and said he intended to recommend to the Navy Department "Commendations of fifteen Navy men who have contributed greatly to the success of our enterprise."

PRECEDENT BROKEN FOR MEXICO LEADER

Hoover Ignores Custom and Repays Ortiz Rubio Call in Person.

MORROW IS DINNER HOST

States with President Hoover, the Mexican chief-to-be smiled and said: "The relations between the two countries are so cordial that we can only speak of that cordiality."

The president-elect will be here until Sunday. From here, he announced yesterday, he will travel North, visiting, among other places, Buffalo and Detroit. He said he was a strong admirer of Henry Ford and probably would call on him in the latter city.

His program today calls for visits to Mount Vernon and Arlington National Cemetery, a luncheon to be given by Secretary of State Stimson at Woodley, a call on Vice President Curtis and a state dinner in his honor at the White House tonight.

President-elect Ortiz Rubio held two conversations with President Hoover, one at the White House and the other at the Mexican Embassy.

They "Take to" Each Other.

Evidently the two leaders "took" to each other. In the red room at the White House, they sat on a sofa and talked for 10 minutes, while Mrs. Hoover and Senora Ortiz Rubio chatted in another part of the room.

The two men would have a lot in common in any event. Like President Hoover, President-elect Ortiz Rubio is an engineer. He attended an engineering college in Mexico City, and afterward set out as a surveyor. It is said that he surveyed more Mexican territory than any man in that country's history.

Has Traveled Widely.

Like President Hoover, the Mexican president-elect also has traveled a great deal. He was his country's Minister to Germany, and afterward served as Ambassador to Brazil.

The similarity also extends to the views of the two men. When he takes office in February, the president-elect will immediately set out to increase efficiency in the Mexican government, and he also proposes to encourage the development of public work.

The president-elect arrived here at noon with an entourage of 17, including Senora Ortiz Rubio, Mexican government officials, secretaries and military aids. He had no Mexican secret service man with him, protection being provided by secret service men detailed by the American Government.

Children Arrive Earlier.

The children of the president-elect—Ofelia, 9; Pascal, 6; and Eugenia, 4—arrived in town an hour earlier, accompanied by Senora Ortiz Rubio's sister, Senorita Esther Ortiz de Megia.

The distinguished visitor was accorded all the honors that would be extended to him if he actually were in office. He was met by Secretary of State Stimson and George Akerson, secretary to the President. Ambassador Tellez also was there to greet him.

As the president-elect emerged from the station, the Army Band played the Mexican national anthem, and a troop of cavalry presented their sabers.

Escorted by motorcycle policemen, the party motored through the Capitol Grounds, down Pennsylvania avenue, and up Sixteenth street to the Mexican Embassy. There another troop of cavalry saluted the president-elect and the Navy Band again played the Mexican hymn.

Poses for Photographers.

The president-elect and his wife called at the White House at 3 o'clock, and about 20 minutes later came out on the portico with President and Mrs. Hoover to pose for photographs.

A little later President and Mrs. Hoover motored to the embassy to return the call.

At 4 o'clock Mrs. Hoover returned to the embassy, picked up Senora Ortiz Rubio and took her to the White House for tea.

At 5 o'clock the president-elect was the honor guest at a reception by the governing board of the Pan-American Union. He was escorted by the Ambassador of Peru, Dr. Hernan Velarde; the Minister of Uruguay, Dr. J. Varela, and the Charge d'Affaires of Argentina, Dr. Julian Enciso.

Tellez Is Praised.

Secretary of State Stimson, in a speech of welcome, referred to the cooperation which the Pan-American Union has always enjoyed from the government and the people of Mexico, and to the work of Ambassador Tellez in furthering the plans of the union.

In reply to Secretary Stimson the president-elect stated that Mexico has always been in favor of closer union between the countries of America, and that Ambassador Tellez, who is a vice chairman of the governing board, has instruction to work toward such a solidarity.

Last night the president-elect was the guest at a dinner at the Carlton Hotel given by Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Giving a signal when pulling out from a parallel parking space is not enough. The traffic regulations of the District require that the driver leaving the curb wait until such time as he can pull out without inconveniencing or slowing through vehicles.

Obstruction of traffic is the thing that this regulation is designed to prevent. Giving the right of way to through traffic rather than to the car leaving the parking space means that only one, rather than a large number, is retarded.

Example: A car is parked parallel to the curb with plenty of space in front to permit the driver to leave with one motion. He extends his arm in signal and drives ahead, gradually pulling out into the middle of the thoroughfare. If he forces another car to swerve or slow, he has violated the law.

HUNTER DUNLAP SCOTT DIES.

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Hunter Dunlap Scott, 32, former member of the diplomatic service and an architect, in Albuquerque, N. Mex., last Monday, from a malady which he contracted while attached to the legation in Berne, Switzerland.

Particularly interested in Pueblo-Mission style of architecture, widely used in the Southwestern part of the country, Mr. Scott wrote several magazine articles on the subject and recently completed a book dealing with the history and development of the style. His interest in this subject was first stimulated when he was a member of the force of supervising architects in Washington, and worked on plans for a Government building in Santa Fe, N. Mex.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen Werner Scott; a daughter, Nancy Dunlap Scott; his mother, three brothers, and two sisters. Funeral services and interment were in Capitan, N. Mex.

Navy Yard Employes To Get Holiday Pay

Holiday pay for their Christmas Eve inactivity will be given to Navy Yard employes, according to a communication sent by Lawrence Richey, a secretary to President Hoover, to N. P. Alifas, representing the Machinists Union at the Navy Yard, and Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, president of the League of the American Civil Service.

Both had requested the President to issue a supplemental executive order to grant pay for the holiday to the employes, who work on a per diem schedule. Mr. Richey advised both that no order of this nature was necessary and that all employes at the Navy Yard would be entitled to the pay, notwithstanding that they were excused from duty.

Bar and Rum Found Behind Radio Shop

Vice Squad Visits Several Other Places, but Without Result.

Investigating a number of complaints, members of Sergt. O. J. Letterman's police vice squad yesterday invaded a garage in the rear of a radio shop on Mount Pleasant street, near Park road northwest, yesterday, where, they reported, they found a miniature bar and three and a half quarts of alleged liquor.

Lewis Boundford, alleged proprietor of the place, was arrested on liquor charges and taken to the Tenth Precinct. The raiding squad was composed of Sergt. Letterman and Detectives Richard J. Cox and James Mostyn.

Sergt. Letterman stated that several other places, for which he had warrants, were visited, but that the supply of Christmas "cheer" in the Capital had evidently dwindled, as liquor could not be found in the places visited.

King George To Be Heard Over Radio

Broadcast Planned of Monarch Naval Parley Speech on Jan. 21. Glazounow Tonight. Navy Band Plays This Afternoon.

An attempt will be made by the National Broadcasting Co. to pick up and rebroadcast through its networks in this country the address of King George of England, when he opens the five-power naval parley in London, January 21. King George is to speak in the royal gallery of the House of Lords at 11 o'clock in the morning, British time. This will mean that his address will be heard about 6 o'clock in the morning in the Eastern part of the United States and still earlier in the middle and far West.

Alexander Glazounow, whose recent concert in New York introduced him personally to a public which has long admired his works, is the composer of the "Bacchanale," a brilliant tone picture of a wild revel, which will be heard in the Cities Service Concert at 8 o'clock. Thomas Grieselle wrote his now famous "Nocturne and March" for a contest. His was adjudged the best work and he received a prize of $10,000. The two pieces are written in a modern idiom influenced by present day dance rhythms.

Rosario Bourdon directs the concert orchestra in the following numbers also:

"Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," "The Dream of My Heart," "That Naughty Waltz," "If You Believed in Me," "Malaguena" and "I'm Following You."

Rudolph Friml's "A Day in May" suite introduces soft melodies which the Planter's Pickers will broadcast at 10 o'clock. The Songsters, a Negro quartet, suggest plantation scenes with a group of their folk songs. Billy Artz directs the orchestra. Among the selections are "Just a-Wearyin' for You," "By the Sea" and "I Won't Believe It's Raining 'Til I See the Rain."

"Broadway Lights," "Harbor Lights" and "Mystery House" are among the other features which WRC will present during the evening, concluding with a dance orchestra from 11 o'clock until midnight.

As the school children of the Nation will be absent from their classes this morning, because of the Christmas holidays, there will be no N. B. C. music appreciation concert. Instead the Salon Singers, a group of sixteen mixed voices under the direction of George Dilworth, with concert orchestra, will present a semiclassical program from 11 o'clock until noon.

The program from 12:10 to 1 o'clock will be dedicated to WEBC, of Superior, Wis., and will present the American Singers, a male quartet, and a concert orchestra directed by Ludwig Laurier.

The Marine Band Orchestra will be presented from 3 to 4 o'clock, under the direction of Capt. Taylor Branson, from the Marine Barracks through Station WRC.

Station WMAL will join the Columbia Broadcasting System at 8 o'clock for four hours, presenting regular Friday evening features.

The United States Navy Band will be heard at 4 o'clock for an hour, directed by Lieut. Charles Benter, to be followed at 5:30 o'clock by a discussion of "Radio and Its Future" by Martin Codel, nationally known radio writer.

Earl Carbauh, barytone, will be presented in a half hour recital at 6:15 o'clock.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CAPRICORN."

IF December 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:50 p. m., and 7 p. m. to 8:20 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Astrological conditions remain unchanged on this date, and optimism and faith are called for. You are advised to "carry on" without fear as you are approaching more favorable times. A new romance is augured, for a woman, and its first inkling should be given at this time.

A child born on this December 27th will be remarkably intelligent and quick, but it will be emotional and high strung. It should be held back so as not to overtax its vitality and mentality, both at school and at home. It will be supersensitive and nervous.

Full of emotion, dramatic and always interesting, is the description that fits those born on this date. Your ideas are original. Your actions are often startling and unexpected. You never bore, although you often cause worry. No one can ever tell what your reaction will be to a given position. Those who try to guess it are invariably confounded.

If you have not earned, so far, material rewards, it is because you have not, by circumstances, been allowed to follow your natural bent. Success—and a large measure of it—is due to come your way, if allowed to "gang your ain gait." If your activities are restricted, and your originality thwarted, you will, so far as achievement is concerned, be a "wash out."

You are very curious and always avid for information. You are not satisfied with bald statements. You must know the "why and wherefore." You are intuitive and it is generally safe to follow these inner promptings—especially if a woman. Your feelings are very deep and your sincerity—almost quixotic in its degree—is never doubted by those who know you. Your married life—especially if mated with one born in March or August—promises much happiness.

Successful people born December 27:

1. John Phillips, merchant and philanthropist.
2. William W. Corcoran, philanthropist. (Exeter, N. H., Academy.)
3. William Allen, U. S. senator, originator of "Fifty-four-forty or fight."
4. Lucius Fairchild, governor of Wisconsin.
5. Ruth Ogden, author.
6. Charles Kerr, judge.

WORK'S BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

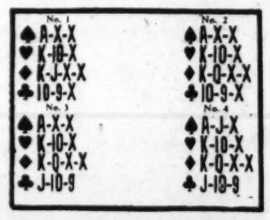
For the Player Familiar With Auction But Inexperienced in Contract.

WHEN determining whether to bid an original No Trump or how many a standard should be used to measure the value of the hand. Many such standards have been suggested by various authorities, some assigning a numerical count to high cards, and others basing the bidding requirement upon quick tricks and fractions of quick tricks. I do not like the quick-trick method and think that of all the numerical counts suggested, Ace 4, King 3, Queen 2, Jack 1 and two Tens 1, is the simplest and most dependable.

There are two basic requirements for original No Trump bids; and two conditions which bar a No Trump bid with hands which otherwise qualify. The basic requirements are: First, at least 3 suits stopped; second, an adequate count. For dealer, the minimum count is 13; for second hand, 12; for dealer's partner, 14; and for fourth hand, 15. The requirement for second hand is lighter because one of his opponents has shown weakness by passing; the requirement for third and fourth hand is stiffer because they have partners who have shown that weakness.

The two conditions which forbid a No Trump, even with three suits stopped and an adequate count, are: First, a blank suit or a singleton weaker than a King; second, an unstopped suit and a major suit of five cards or more.

To illustrate the count requirement, look at these four hands:



They all have three suits stopped. Hand No. 1 counts 12; Hand No. 2 counts 13, Hand No. 3 counts 14, and Hand No. 4 counts 15. No. 1 would be strong enough for a second hand to bid, dealer having passed, but not strong enough to bid in any other position. No. 2 would justify a bid by either dealer or second hand, but not by third or fourth hand. No. 3 should be bid by any one of the first three players, but not by the fourth hand; and No. 4 should be bid in any position at the table.

This subject will be continued next Friday.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Chic afternoon dress of red crepella trimmed with gold lame. (Courtesy of the Maison Tollman, Paris).

Paris, Dec. 26.

NEW YEAR'S EVE'S coming . . . time to get your party dress and accessories lined up, as it were. You know, you absolutely have to have them, or else not go! But the clever woman never stays home for lack of the proper things to wear. She arranges.

Let's get at our evening shoes and stockings first. Are your silver slippers tarnished? If they are, it's probably only on the heels or toes. Voila, hie you to a paint shop and buy silver bronzing powder, banana oil and transparent white shellac. Cover the heel or toe, or all the slipper if you wish, first with a coat of white shellac. When it is perfectly dry, paint it with the silver bronzing powder mixed with banana oil. Now, when that in turn is dry, cover once more with a coat of white shellac. You understand, these are only last-minute emergency measures for silver slippers you thought had practically seen their day. If they can be reclaimed in any less stringent way, do so.

• • • •

And now for stockings—get out a pair or buy a pair that yo uare going to need and hide them away!

Next, your evening bag or vanity, handkerchief and jewelry; the little things first, you see, because they are the most important.

Now, any other accessories that you know you are going to need, such as a fan, an evening cap or diadem, &c.

Good heavens, we haven't any more room—but then we have taken care of the most important parts of our evening outfit, so let's talk about the rest of it tomorrow or Monday.

• • • •

The Couturiers.

Patou. I was just about to say there is only one way to pronounce this name, so that there isn't any use in explaining it, when La Chic Secretaire Americaine let out a yelp and said there may be only one way to pronounce it, but that she had heard 57 varieties of that pronunciation! So-o-o-o, Patou is nothing more or less complicated or difficult than "pa-too." The accent is on the "too." Ten times now!

• • • •

Don't you think you need a blouse? Well, now, let's see—you can wear it with a sports skirt, you can wear it with a velvet skirt for a dressy afternoon outfit, and, sh-h-h-h, as a pajama top for that very special and elegant indoor tea.

N'en, when I promise you that you can make it in half an hour, and that you don't have to know so awful much about sewing—can you resist sending your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that tells you exactly how to make it.

• • • •

Tollman's simplicity and elegance—how well expressed in this red crepella afternoon dress, discreetly trimmed in red and gold lame (lah-may). Note how the lines of the new dresses flatter the feminine figure? Even though they seem to annoy a lot of men.

• • • •

Oh, we almost forgot to remind you of the weekly Dare fashion letter in each Sunday's Washington Post. We think it is well worth looking for.

Au Revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Glamour Not Love."

The letter in your column from the university man in love with the girl who never heard of Helen of Troy reminds me of another such case only the lady had been twice married and was having a third chance! She couldn't spell, she couldn't converse, she could do nothing, yet she was a charmer. The man in this case was graduated from Harvard or Yale. I forget which, had been a professor and was a writer. He was an authority on certain matters. And was highly respected by men of the highest intelligence and standing.

He went woozy over the round-eyed widow and she, having "a gimme" complex, accepted his attentions and gifts. She was taken everywhere and got by because she didn't open her mouth, just sat round-eyed and vacant minded. One evening, however, she did speak and amazed and embarrassed a roomful. The man was talking with some of the company about Sothern's "Hamlet." It was a highly interesting discussion and every one seemed interested. Even the lady with the round eyes was interested, for she said when there was a lull. "Who is this Hamlet? What has he done?"

Can you wonder that there was a deep pall-like silence.

And yet that man loved her and would have married her in spite of her vapidity, but he discovered she was engaged to one of her own class at the same time she was engaged to him. I wonder how it turned out.

"Penn," writing in your column, should pass up the lady, he is just dazzled, we always do give an undue amount of admiration to imported wares when we have much prettier and better in our own land. The fact that she is stubborn is enough for any one to break an engagement. A splendid young fellow like Penn should have an open-minded girl, one with literary leanings, one to whom he can talk over his plans, his story plots, his progress.

The girl in whom he is now interested will never be a help, nothing but a hindrance. She will care for herself only and what she wants. Isn't it a shame that such a nice boy would get interested in that kind of girl. The fact that she is in musical comedy shows that she wants the applause of the world and would never be content to sit at home loved by just one man. And another thing, she is older and is probably looking upon him as a safety-valve; if anything should happen in her young life she has him to fall back upon. But I do not believe she will marry him if she can get her hooks into something with money and a sporty front.

Penn is too young to marry and shouldn't hesitate about breaking this engagement for he is suffering only from glamour, not love. It is just like measles or other little complaints and he has to have it.

It is odd, but true, that real young boys always fall for the older girls just as some very young girls fall for men old enough to be their fathers.

Haven't we all suffered from glamour! Is there a boy or girl who has not been stage-struck? And not being able to be an actor or actress have we not gone woozy over those who are. I remember getting thrills walking behind Faversham and Keene, those two wonderful exponents of the dramatic art. And when we've had a stock company here didn't several of us haunt the stage entrance, just to get an eyeful of the adored! Penn thinks it is wonderful to just know, look at and be near a girl who is in musical comedy! He'll get over it, God bless him. "EDNA MAY."

Glamour, not love! Ah if we could only know how much of love is glamour, how careful we would be. The boys who sit in mute worship of mere loveliness of face seldom dream that they are merely responding to the beautiful, rather than experiencing any deeper emotion.

But who can tell them this, and when the solemn words have been said and the routine of living has begun, how ghastly when "beauty" answers "Yeh," or "Huh?" That is tragedy, for then is glamour dispelled and beauty bedimmed.

Most unhappy marriages are among people who never held a conversation together until they discussed the merits of the new butcher or the price of creamery butter. The mind really is an important factor in the business of living, although most folks seem to get along just as well without it!

This column is for you! Your experience, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

Pensions for Old Age To Be Breakfast Topic

A breakfast discussion of old age pensions will be held at the Occidental Hotel tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock.

Abram Epstein, secretary of the League for Old Age Security, will explain the bill for old age pensions now before Congress, and Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, and Representative Phil Swing, of California, will lead the discussion. Ethelbert Steyart, chief of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, will preside. The public is invited.

Uncle Ray's Corner

HOW DEEP IS THE OCEAN?

HOW deep is the ocean?

Careful study of the question has been made only during the last 80 years. Before that, people did little more than guess. They knew that the ocean bottom was deeper than any man would want to go down; but that was about the limit of what they knew.

How sounding is done by means of echo.

The earliest tests were made by means of long ropes, which were let down with weights at the ends. The rope was measured from the point it began to "slack" when being let down.

Later tests were made by means of wire which was let out from a reel at the rate of 600 feet per minute. Sinkers weighing 50 pounds were at the end of wire let down to great depths. To measure a depth of 3 miles, and to turn the wire back on the reel, took an hour and 15 minutes.

One trouble with testing in that way is that the ship drifts away from the point where the sinker is dropped in, and the wire is on a slant when the measure is made. That makes an error, small or large.

A better way of "sounding" has been used during the last ten years. A clang or other noise is made and a sound wave is sent to the ocean bottom. Then the echo comes back a few seconds later. There is an instrument on the ship to "catch" the echo.

Sound travels faster through water than through air, in fact about five times as fast. The rate of travel of sound through sea water has been studied. When an echo takes six seconds to return, the depth is known to be about 3 miles.

The average depth of the Atlantic Ocean is about 2 miles. The average depth of the Pacific is about 1,000 feet greater. The greatest known depth is in the Pacific Ocean, at the place known as the Philippine Trench. It is 6½ miles to the bottom. Strangely enough this very deep place is not very far from the shore of an island.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

DRESSING FOR COLD WEATHER.

IN the midst of the World War Great Britain summoned Dr. Grenfell from Labrador to have him tell the men of the homeland how to dress for comfort in the winter. The garments he recommended for them differed radically from those they were wearing. In the main they were designed to hold the warm air next the body and to prevent leakage around the trouser legs, waist bands, neck bands, and cuffs. Shoes did not press the feet, nor did they leak. It can not be claimed that Dr. Grenfell's recommendations accomplished much.

Now we find Dr. W. F. Draper, assistant surgeon general, United States Public Health Service, trying his hand with men's garments for summer wear and for the seasons between heat and cold. For midsummer he recommends a short sleeved shirt, short-legged trousers not much longer than running trunks, socks that do not reach the knee—something of a Scotch highlander garment—and sport shoes. The only undergarment is about the present-day summer shorts. The shirt has a loose collar, perhaps a roll. There are pockets on both right and left. The trousers, being very light, can be readily supported by buckles attached to the shirt, the weight being carried from the shoulders.

For wear in somewhat cooler weather he recommends a combination blouse, coat and trousers. The blouse coat has a soft or roll collar. At no point are there bands or belts. Air, heated by the legs, rises unimpeded by the abdomen and back, flows by the waistline and escapes at the neck. There are pockets in both the shirt and trousers. The weight of the light-weight trousers is suspended from the shoulders. In order that as much sunlight as possible may reach the skin, the cloth used is an open fabric, and the only underwear is light summer shorts.

Dr. Draper admits the difficulty in getting men to dress for comfort, in spite of the example their sisters have set. He pleads for comfort on occasions, even though fashion decrees that men shall live in discomfort. His especial plea is for a comfortable dress suit. As things now are, men go forth to dance—the hardest work they do and the most trying in endurance—clad in tight collars, stiff cuffs, a starched shirt bosom and assorted garments, each provocative of incapacity and discomfort.

Woman's Party Leader Hits Marriage Laws

The failure of the modern home to function properly is due in great part to the inferior position given the married woman in the laws, according to Mrs. Harvey Wiley, of 2345 Ashmead place northwest, speaking over a Nation-wide radio hook-up last night. Mrs. Wiley, who is chairman of the homemakers' council of the Woman's Party, was elected national chairman of the organization at its biennial convention here recently.

JEWS' RELIEF HEAD URGES CHARITY AID

Mrs. C.A. Goldsmith, in Talk, Pleads for Support of Community Chest.

SPEAKS TO SORORITY

In service to humanity, the fountain of youth may be found by women, according to Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, president, United Hebrew Relief Society, in an address before the Phi Sigma Sigma Sorority convention last night at a dinner at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Goldsmith made a special plea in behalf of the Community Chest and asked those present to cooperate in the forthcoming campaign. Among other things Mrs. Goldsmith said:

"May I say to you that I found throughout my life that serving others brings greater compensations than any of the activities in which we women generally fritter away our lives. I found that service is the fountain of youth. One is too busy to get old. That in itself is worth while and not always from the point of view of vanity.

Urges Community Chest Aid.

"One of the great ways of serving not only our people, but all human beings in need, is the Community Chest. It has made for better lives. It has brought better understanding. The underprivileged have felt the new spirit, for it has made their lives brighter."

"Let me invite you—for I need not plead with you—to join the great army which is enrolling again in the service of the Community Chest. This army seeks to vanquish want and ugliness. It seeks to make lives better and brighter. Every dollar you will help collect for the Community Chest will save some one from despair or bring some one new hope and new opportunity.

"No one is too important and no one is too humble to enlist in the Community Chest army of workers and helpers. The principle of the Community Chest is that no gift is too small and none too large, as long as it represents what the giver can actually afford. There is room for every one in this great army of workers.

Wants Jewish Cooperation.

"There is every reason why our people should do even more than their share. Our own social service agencies are generously provided by the Community Chest. We must respond by doing our share. But we must do more than that, for in addition to being Jews we are citizens of this great city, and as such we want to do our duty by our fellow citizens.

"I hope you will enlist in large numbers and help make the second Community Chest campaign even greater than the first and more significant. It is blessed to give, but twice blessed to give and teach others to give. Let us as a people, in consonance with our fine Jewish traditions, help in this great enterprise."

VICTIM OF LYNCHING NAMES SIX OF MOB

clared that he recognized six of the men who surprised S. L. Combs, the jailer, bound him and took his keys, had dragged Fugate from his cell in his night clothes, beat him with a blackjack, trampled upon him, shot him and hurled his apparently lifeless body into a ditch a few miles from town, where Jim Butler, a farmer, heard his groans and prayers.

The men bound over and released in bail shortly before Fugate died and their kinship to Clay Watkins are:

Samuel J. Watkins, brother; L. K. Rice, son-in-law; Allie Watkins, son, and Earl and Bent Howard, nephews. All waived preliminary hearing, and their cases are expected to be taken up when the grand jury meets, January 6. Estimates of the jailer and Fugate as to the total number of men in the mob ranged from 30 to 40, even as high as 100, and Combs said all the men he saw wore masks.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

IT remained for Mr. Andrew R. Kelley to invent what he calls the electrical Christmas—charged; but, then, there were many of the boys charged and they didn't have an electrical Christmas, either.

• • • •

IT was mighty fine of the theater men to remember the conductor of this department. Presents arrived from Steve Cochran, manager of the National; L. Stoddard Taylor, manager emeritus of the Belasco, and T. D. Bonneville, manager of Poli's, along with packages from other celebrities of the theater, and a 1930 diary from T. Arthur Smith, the music man. The new leaf will be turned over in this tome in a little while, and a regular life led—now that the hectic but happy days of Christmastide have gone into the discard.

• • • •

BELTS are now being tightened for the New Year—which brings promise of high entertainment in Washington. The National will be going full tilt under the Erlanger-Tyler banner with a new play from the pen of Dwight Taylor, a comedy called "Trevelyn's Ghost." A midnight performance is scheduled for the Gayety to usher the Old Year out and welcome in the New Year. The German Opera Company, from Berlin and way stations, moves into Poli's along around the sixth night of January—and the night clubs, always with us, are promising bigger and better jazz bands. In other words, Whoopee!

• • • •

ONE of the finest bits of comedy extant will be seen in Washington shortly after the New Year gets under way—Mrs. Fiske in "Ladies of the Jury." The farce, written by a New York attorney named Ballard who once gave the world a Harvard prize play, "Believe Me, Xantippe," first saw the light of theater in Baltimore, at Ford's Op'ry House. Many of the Washington critics journeyed over and voted the offering one of the best of the season. It went into New York and scored an instantaneous hit. That was at the beginning of the present season. Rumor hath it that George C. Tyler, the producer, had no small hand in making "Ladies of the Jury" an unusual comedy and this by injecting some actual occurrences in the script. It seems that Mr. Tyler once served on a jury where women were also pondering the processes of law.

• • • •

THOUGH it is a long time from now until early spring, what with ice and snow and slush on the ground, the little birds of Pennsylvania avenue and E street carry tales—and they do say that the National Theater Players are going to open up along about Eastertide for one of the most strenuous seasons ever mapped out. As yet there has been no official pronunciamento, but this is the rumor. Letters have been received in this office from Romaine Callender and Leneta Lane, two outstanding stars with the troupe, and they still profess great love for Washington—and its springtime festivities, when the cherry blossoms are ripe and red on the Rialto.

• • • •

INCIDENTALLY, Mr. Charles Hampden—dear old Charles—who played many a rollicking role with the National Theater Players, has landed in a high and mighty position in the theater. Word comes from the Assembly Theater in New York that Sir Charles is playing the lead in "The Novice and the Duke," a modern version of "Measure for Measure." No novice, he is naturally cast as the Duke.

So much for the theater. Here's wishing everybody a Happy New Year.

YALE AND MARLOW MURDERS LINKED WITH DINNER HOLDUP

said, was a contract for the killing of Yale and Marlow, which was signed by a Bronx racketeer and on which $15,000 still was due.

The contract, Donovan said, was in the pocket of a "man from Chicago," who, lulled into a sense of false security, walked into the trap the New York slickers had set for him.

When seven robbers held up the Vitale dinner they took Johnson's pistol, several hundred dollars in cash and jewelry (that made it look like a good robbery) and the contract. All but the contract was returned within a few hours to the "victims," most of whom, Donovan said, knew about the holdup two hours before it was staged.

Th econtract, the inspector explained, was signed by Ciro Terranova, who was a guest at the dinner, who is most familiarly known as "the artichoke king," and who has been many times arrested but never convicted.

As Inspector Donovan told it, Yale and Marlow, who had many rackets, had been poaching on preserves Terranova claimed as his own. Terranova didn't like it. He got in touch with some friends in Chicago who agreed—for $20,000—to get the two men out of his way. He paid them $5,000 on account.

Yale and Marlow were killed. The Chicago man wanted his $15,000. On the night of December 7 he was in New York with the contract in his pocket. They could pay, he said, or he would drop the contract and an explanatory letter in a mail box, addressed to Police Commissioner Whalen.

"We'll pay," he was told, but first why not go to a little dinner party and have a good time? It was a good party, for a city magistrate and other judges would be there and Detective Johnson, who would sit beside him so he wouldn't come to harm.

Contract Taken Away.

He didn't come to harm, but when the holdup men came in on the dinner one of the first they searched was "the guy next to Johnson." From his pocket they took the contract.

Terranova is at liberty. Yale and Marlow are dead, as per contract. The "man from Chicago" apparently has gone home.

William Bailey, of Brooklyn, is held as Yale's murderer, but never has been brought to trial. Parker Henderson, son of a former Miami, Fla., mayor, was brought here to testify as to whether he had any information pointing to a connection between the killing and Al Capone, then a resident of Miami, now a prisoner in Pennsylvania for a year. (He was caught in Philadelphia last summer carrying a gun.) Nothing ever came of it.

Three Held in Murder.

Johnny Wilson, former middleweight boxing champion, whom Marlow at one time managed and with whom he ate his last supper, Edward L. Lewis and Al Seigel, are held in from $20,000 to $50,000 bail in Marlow's murder. No one has been charged with the actual killing.

Magistrate Vitale, who was a friend of Terranova's and sat in a box with him at the last annual party of the Tepecano Club, which is not the regular Democratic organization of the district, is under investigation by the City Bar Association.

Johnson's trial was adjourned today until next Monday after he had testified in his own defense that he did not know Terranova, that he thought the hold-up was "bona fide" and that when Magistrate Vitale returned his pistol to him a few hours after the stick-up the magistrate declined to tell him where he had got it.

What further action Commissioner Ahwlen plans in the murders and the hold-up he declined to reveal today.

Tonight, however, it became known that after the adjournment of the trial, Commissioner Whalen departed for Chicago. His purpose is to confer with officials there on allegations concerning the Chicago gunmen.

The commissioner considered his mission so important he refused to intrust it to detectives, believing he could accomplish more personally.

MOTHER AND INFANT DIE FROM EXPOSURE

fant boy were recovered yesterday, brought here and buried today.

The bodies were found in a hollow log, three-quarters of a mile from the Marcum home, by the father, Frank Marcum, who retraced his daughter's footprints through the snow to the point where the mother and young boy collapsed from exhaustion after four days of wandering in the bitter cold. They were placed in the log by Minnie to shield them from the cold.

Minnie said she left Huntsville with her mother, brother and sister in an automobile. At the base of the mountain they left the machine to walk up the mountain trail, a distance of 3 miles.

They became lost, she said, the trail being invisible from the heavy snow. They wandered about, she said, through Thursday, Friday and Saturday. On Sunday the mother fell exhausted, and died within a few minutes. The infant boy died shortly afterward.

Minnie said her younger sister became ill from the cold and she took clothing from the body of her mother to warm her. Two more days were spent in wandering before they reached home. Both collapsed after telling of their experiences. Physicians who attended them said they were suffering from exposure, but would recover.

The Marcum home is on Sharps Mountain, near the Marshall-Madison County line, in Alabama.

FAIR TURNOVER SEES STOCK PRICES CLIMB

Call Money Is 6 Per Cent; Auburn Auto Gains 16 Points.

FOREIGN SHARES FIRM

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Holiday cheer appeared to have revived the bull party as trading was resumed on the stock market today. Shares prices were given the most decisive boost of the past fortnight. Trading, however, was but moderately accelerated. Only 2,576,740 shares were transferred.

The early transactions were small and somewhat hesitant, but disclosed that there had been no accumulation of tax selling orders over the holiday. Shorts hurried to cover their commitments, as professional speculators for the rise quickly took advantage of the situation to send prices higher, concentrating their efforts in some of the swift moving utilities.

Credit continued to tighten, in keeping with the normal year-end tendencies. Call money touched 6 per cent, the highest rate since mid-November, after renewing at 5½. Banks called some $40,000,000 in loans. The flow of funds normally turns in the direction of New York after Christmas, but this is offset by "window dressing" by banks and corporations which withdraw their funds to make large cash balances appear in their annual statements.

Brokers' Loans Fall $58,000,000.

The weekly brokerage loan compilation disclosed a further reduction of $58,000,000, leaving a total of $3,328,000,000, the lowest since the first week of October, 1927. The minimum figure since publication of the compilation was begun four years ago was $2,403,000,000 in May, 1926, and the maximum, $6,804,000,000 on October 2, last.

The Federal Reserve condition statements showed moderate increases in rediscounting and purchases of bills, evidently in an effort to stabilize conditions over the year end. The weekly gold movement statement showed that more than $16,000,000 was sent to France late last week, and that $11,000,000 of the metal had been earmarked for foreign account.

Business and trade reports indicated a further slackening of activity in keeping with year-end tendencies. November railway net operating income reports disclosed declines from the like month of last year, with a few notable exceptions, including Missouri Pacific, Missouri, Kansas, and Texas and New Haven.

Auto Manufacturers Optimistic.

"Automotive Industries" estimated that freight car requirements for the motor industry during the next quarter will show a jump of 33 per cent from the current quarter, and a reduction of 7 per cent from the like period of the previous year. President Everitt, of Montgomery Ward & Co., predicted that the first half of next year would not come up to the more optimistic expectations, but looked for a gradual revival of activity throughout the year.

Shares rising 4 to 8 points included Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, American Can, American Tobacco, American Water Works, Byers, Columbian Carbon, General Electric, Johns Manville, Macy, Simmons, Standard Gas, Stone & Webster, Underwood Elliott, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, U. S. Steel, and Westinghouse Electric. Auburn Auto jumped 16 and Otis Elevator 15.

Radio closed 3 points higher. Merchandising and motor shares were notably firmer. Anaconda sold up 3 points on declaration of the regular dividend. Some time ago an extra was rumored, but recently there has been some apprehension of a reduction, in view of the slump in copper buying.

Few Weak Spots.

Weak spots were few. Chicago & Eastern Illinois, which has not traded in several weeks, sold at 15, a drop of 14 points from the previous sale and a new low for the year. Crex Carpet, National Bellas Hess preferred, American Ice preferred, National Surety, and Sloss Sheffield, also dropped to new lows.

Cotton was a feature of the commodity markets, closing 40 to 85 cents a bale higher, in buying in response to reports of a better cotton goods situation. Wheat moved up nearly a cent a bushel in response to unfavorable weather reports.

Foreign exchange was steady to firm, with the French franc mounting still higher, the cable rate establishing another 1929 peak at 3.94 5-16 cents.

U.S. BONDS ARE FIRM IN SLUGGISH MARKET

First-Grade Rails Remain Steady During Very Dull Day.

INDUSTRIALS ARE HEAVY

New York, Dec. 26 (A. P.).—The bond market drifted idly in the doldrums of the holidays today. The session was one of the dullest since last summer although volume slightly exceeded that of Tuesday. Price changes were highly irregular, but the tendency was downward in most groups. However, United States Governments and first grade rails held firm and really weak spots in the remainder of the list were few.

Time money was unchanged. The renewal rate on call loans was 5½ per cent, but the charge advanced to 6 per cent early in the afternoon. The increase caused little surprise and higher rates would not be unexpected in view of the requirements of banks and corporations as the new year approaches.

Small Investment Demand.

Investment demand for bonds was small and such buying as did appear was selective. Some of the low coupon rails moved up a point or so, among them Central Pacific First 4s, Missouri Pacific General 4s, Southern Railway (St. Louis Division) 4s, and Union Pacific 4s of 1968. Firmer tendencies were evident in Atchison General 4s, Rock Island 4½s, Erie 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New Haven Refunding 4½s, Pennsylvania General 4½s, and St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s, and Prior Lien 4s.

Heaviness of numerous low priced industrials reflected further tax selling, but this was offset to some extent by speculative purchases of issues in which this factor was not an influence. American Agricultural Chemical 7½s and Certainteed 5½s dropped to new lows. Hudson Coal 5s advanced 2 points.

Utility Group Varies.

The utility group was mixed, with telephone company bonds shewing the best support. On the other hand, such issues as Kansas Gas & Electric 6s, Utah Power & Light 5s and Utilities Power & Light 5½s eased.

Sluggishness marked the course of the convertibles. American Telephone 4½s failed to keep pace with the shares and moved narrowly for a net gain of 1¼. Missouri Pacific 5½s and New Haven 6s advanced 1 and 1½, respectively. American I. G. Chemical 5½s and Alleghany 5s of 1944 lost half a point.

European government obligations held up well, but Latin Americans were heavy, Peruvian 6s losing about 2 points on the average, while Rio de Janeiro 6½s went to a new low on a 3-point decline. Bonds of Chile, Argentina and Brazil were irregularly lower.

RESERVE FIGURES GIVEN

Increases in net income of $36,051.94 for the month of November and $170,857.26 for the 11 months ended with November, as compared with the same periods last year, are shown in the report of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. covering rail operations, filed yesterday with the Public Utilities Commission. The net income last month was $380,509.45, the report states, and the total for the 11-month period, $1,812,782.33.

Both increases, however, are traceable to substantial gains in nonoperating income over the same periods of last year. For November, 1929, the nonoperating income amounted to $354,388.98, or an increase of $34,593.72, while for the 11-month period it totaled $1,575,742.12, or an increase of $173,113.82.

On the other hand, operating income decreased $5,353.15 to a total of $83,717.30 for the month and $49,790.24 to the sum of $900,473.29 for the 11-month period, as compared with last year. The operating revenues of $433,013.19 for the month and $4,811,460.55 for the 11-month period show decreases of $8,886.57 and $60,828.68, respectively. Operating expenses for both periods showed slight decreases, with those for the month being $349,295.80, or a drop of $3,533.42, and those for the 11 months totaling $3,910,987.26, or a savings of $11,038.44.

2 NATIONAL LEAGUE RECORDS HELD BY EARL CLARK

GRIFFITH AGAIN TEMPTS CITY SLICKERS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—It has been just about one year since Tex Rickard lay in state in the new Garden, but his favorite and most lucrative business device, the process of eliminating the heavyweights and realigning them goes on as before. Friday evening, Johnny Risko, old pretzel molder from Cleveland, who was eliminated several times at considerable expense to the patrons of the ennobling science, returns to the ring for another elimination bout, this time facing Gerald (Tuffy) Griffith, of Chicago. The purpose of the entertainment will be to select a partner or accompanist for Jack Sharkey, the leering Lithuanian, of Boston, in his 10-round performance at Miami about the twenty-second of February.

Mr. Sharkey has been definitely picked to entertain or bore the customers in Miami, according to the state of his temperament on the evening in question, but it has been quite difficult to find an accompanist whose very presence in the ring would not dishearten the prospective patrons and send them fleeing to the roadhouses and night clubs, fearing a repetition of the Sharkey-Stribling love orgy of last winter.

Griffith's Record is Slightly Tainted.

Mr. Griffith is a young man, who has knocked out ten of the thirteen athletes who essayed to cavort with him since he passed the light-heavyweight limit of 175 pounds and began to practice among the larger and funnier characters. The victims of these conquests were obscure and in a certain sense, pathetic individuals bearing such names as Staggering Joe this and Collapsible Tom that, all members of what you might call the Tanks Corps of the roped arena, meaning that they were tankers and practically guaranteed to go in the water with very little urging from Gerald (Tuffy) Griffith.

In New York to date Mr. Griffith has had a small but balanced career. The first time he fought here as a 175-pounder, he was a wild-eyed country youth and somebody had told him to be sure to take his watch in the ring with him because the city was full of unscrupulous characters who would be almost certain to frisk his trousers in the dressing room.

Kept One Glove on His Watch.

So Gerald (Tuffy) had a watch pocket tailored in his ring trunks and then as he was going down the aisle, a sinister individual whispered to him: "Be sure to keep one hand on your watch pocket at all times as your opponent is a notorious pickpocket and is almost certain to steal it if you lax your vigilance."

Young Mr. Griffith, coming as he did from the wide open spaces of Sioux City, Iowa, where dishonesty is an unknown thing, then thought of handing his watch over to his manager for safe keeping but decided he would stand the better chance of retaining the watch in the long run if he kept it on his person as advised by the sinister character.

His opponent that evening was Mr. James J. Braddock, who so far as I know is not a pickpocket at all and certainly not so accomplished a pickpocket as to be able to extract a watch from a pair of silk trunks while wearing boxing gloves. However, young Mr. Griffith answered the bell fighting in one-handed fashion, clasping his right glove over his pocket and casting some very suspicious glances at the referee whenever that gentleman went near him.

Upshot of Matter is Broken Watch.

The upshot of this was that Mr. Braddock knocked him temporarily goofy and for irony, when Gerald fell down he landed on his pants pocket and smashed the watch anyway, as a result of which he and his intimates spent several weeks tweezing small brass flywheels, stop-dogs, springs and connecting rods out of his person.

On his reappearance here, this time as a heavyweight, he fought or assaulted a forlorn Teuton by the name of Ludwig Haymann, who bore the strange title of Doktor. Mr. Walter St. Dennis, chief of the public relations bureau of the Garden corporation, recognized only three varieties of doctors, namely doctors of medicine, horse doctors and corn doctors.

Griffith 7 to 5 Choice Over Risko

Heavies Meet Tonight for Right to Battle Sharkey.

Habit of Upsetting Dope Makes Clevelander Dangerous.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The ugly duckling of the prize ring, rubbery Johnny Risko, has it in his power again to break the hopes and spirit of another young aspirant for heavyweight honors. The bounding one from Cleveland, a constant menace to every battler who rears his head above the crowd, will provide the test of fire and leather tomorrow night for Gerald Ambrose Griffith in an important ten-round tilt at Madison Square Garden. The winner will be among those present when the Garden nominates a rival for Jack Sharkey in the second annual duel of the Southland at Miami, Fla., February 27.

The plump baker boy already has engaged Griffith once, losing to him on a foul in seven rounds earlier this season. With any other fighter than Risko that would indicate that Gerald Ambrose, who was dedicated to fighting from the moment he was christened, had something of an edge.

Tabbed as Spoiler By Tex Rickard.

Risko, however, is the master of the prize ring form reversals. The late Tex Rickard, in a moment of exasperation, named him "The Spoiler" and named him well. His hobby has always seemed to be the trimming of logical heavyweight contenders after "blowing" decisions to very ordinary athletes.

In the course of various elimination tournaments Risko defeated Jack Delaney, Paulino Uzcudun, George Godfrey and finally Jack Sharkey, and would have faced Gene Tunney in the heavyweight king's last stand but for losing a hair-line decision to Tom Heeney in Detroit in 1927. Yet Risko has been beaten by Romero Rojas, Sully Montgomery, and was technically knocked out by Chuck Wiggins. Max Schmeling also stopped him here last year.

Griffith's Record Bears Blot.

Griffith, a rushing, swinging socker with a host of backers and believers, has only one bad mark on his record. Jimmy Braddock, the light-heavyweight contender, caught him charging in one night in the Garden and laid him low with a right smash to the head. Since then Tuffy graduated to the heavyweight ranks and whipped Paulino, among others.

Despite Risko's record he will enter the ring in his favorite role as the underdog. He has never been beaten, never except when favored in the betting. The odds on Griffiths are 7 to 5. Johnny will have a weight advantage of about ten pounds, with Griffiths scaling about 184.

In two 10-round preliminaries Larry Johnson, hard-hitting Negro stablemate of Griffiths, will battle Joe Sekyra, the Dayton blonde, and Harold Mays will oppose Paul Cavalier in an all-New Jersey duel.

Hoppe Leads Cochran In Exhibition Match

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Willie Hoppe, once the billiard master, won the first pair of 50-point blocks today in his 400-point three-cushion billiard match here with Welker Cochran, also a former champion.

Hoppe won the afternoon block 50 to 49 and the evening block 50 to 38, giving him a first day lead of 100 to 87. Play lasted 39 innings in the afternoon. Hoppe's high run was 13. Cochran's 6. Hoppe ran out in 41 innings tonight and they shared high run honors at five apiece.

FOUR JUNIOR NET CHOICES BEATEN

Seeded Players Bow in Straight Sets in U. S. Tourney.

By TED VOSBURGH,
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Younger brothers of two well-known American tennis stars set the pace today as the national junior indoor tennis championship tournament with a record list of 111 entrants got under way at the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Both William Jacobs, of Baltimore City College, and Sidney Seligson, of New York University, seeded first and second, respectively, reached the third round without being extended, but four other members of the seeded sixteen were eliminated in the very first round and a fifth was forced to default.

Jacobs, playing the rushing, volleying style of tennis that marks the play of his big brother, Eddie Jacobs, an established star at the University of Pittsburgh, smothered Emanuel Klauser, of James Madison High School, New York, 6—0, 6—0, after drawing a first round bye.

Seligson won by default from Harold Weiner, of the City College of New York, then out-drove John Talbot, New York youngster, to win easily at 6—2, 6—2.

Show Effect of Brother's Tutelage.

Like Jacobs, young Seligson showed the effects of his elder brother's tutelage. He used the same hard-driving tactics as those which carried Julius Seligson, of Lehigh, to the national intercollegiate championship and a "first ten" ranking in 1928.

Richard Hebard, national outdoor boys' champion of last year, was expected to give Jacobs and Seligson a hard run for the title, but injured an arm in a fall on the ice near his home in White Plains, N. Y., and was compelled to default.

Richard Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., and Harvard University, present champion, was unable to enter because of illness.

Upsets were many during the solid ten hours of play and four of the foremost contenders not only were beaten in the first round, but suffered the additional indignity of losing in straight sets.

Charles Avedon, of Yale, met his match is Irving Sovkowitz, New York University, who trimmed the eighth seeded player by scores of 6—4, 7—5.

Arnold Henley, of Amherst, took the measure of Nathaniel T. Winthrop, of Boston, 6—3, 6—3; J. Clarence Davies, of Horace Mann High School, New York, overcame Franklin Whitbeck, of the Loomis School, 6—2, 7—5, and Aaron Miller, Baltimore, upset Ben Cohen, Wilmington, Del., High School, 6—2, 6—1.

Other Seeded Players Fare Better.

The other seeded contenders fared better, winning their first - round matches. Among these was the victory of Charles T. French, University of Baltimore, over Lester Kabasoff, East Orange, N. J., High School, by 6—0, 6—1.

That of Herman K. Goldberg, Johns Hopkins; Donald M. Frame, Harvard, and Richard Solomon, Brown University, as well as Jacobs, drew first-round byes.

Among those to reach the third round besides Jacobs and Seligson were Laimbeer, who in the second round trimmed John C. Ewer, Boston, 6—0, 6—4; Mundy, who defeated Maxwell Wolf, of City College of New York, 6—3, 6—2; Frame, who downed Charles Sorentrue, Far Rockaway High School, 6—3, 6—0, and Solomon, who outlasted Sydney Wertheimer, New York, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4.

French was beaten in the second round by Sheldon Morganstern, of C. C., New York, 8—6, 6—1.

Orioles Trade Pitcher For Browns' Outfielder

St. Louis, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Bill Friel, business manager of the St. Louis Browns, announced today that Pitcher Holshouser, a young right-hander, has been obtained from the Baltimore Club of the International League in exchange for Outfielder Frank McGowan. Holshouser was obtained at the request of Bill Killefer, new manager of the Browns.

G. U. QUINTET IN BROOKLYN TONIGHT

Meets K. of C. Five in 1st Game of Northern Invasion.

BEATING their local rivals to the resumption of competition after the Christmas lay-off, Georgetown's courtmen tonight will open a Northern invasion in a game with the Columbus Council Knights of Columbus five in Brooklyn. Coach Bill Dudack sent the players through a drill to loosen stiff muscles yesterday afternoon at the scene of the contest.

Last year the same Georgetown team defeated the same Casey quintet by a comfortable margin. Tonight the Hoyas hope to repeat. Three and possibly four other games will be played before they return to the Hilltop. Tomorrow night they will meet the strong Crescent A. C., which handed them a walloping last year. On Monday they will engage Manhattan College in New York City, and the next night one of three other entrants—Yale, New York, University and Holy Cross—in the annual Yale tournament at New Haven. If successful in their debut the Hoyas will remain for another battle on Wednesday night when the championship will be determined.

K. of C. Sprint Field Named; Elder Out

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Dec. 26.—Following the receipt of a telegram yesterday from Coach John T. Nicolson, of Notre Dame, advising that Jack Elder, his crack sprinter, has been unable to obtain permission to be away from school so soon after the holiday vacation, to enable him to compete in the special Olympic sprint series at the Columbus Council K. of C. games at the Twenty-third Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, on January 4, the "Casey" games committee announced that the field for this sprint series at 60, 80 and 100 meters will consist of six sprinters, five of whom will be the following:

Karl Wildermuth, Georgetown University, intercollegiate and Metropolitan A. A. U. 100-yard champion; James Daley, Holy Cross College, intercollegiate indoor 70-yard champion; George Morin, Holy Cross College, New England and national junior A. A. U. sprint champion; John Talbott and William Bruder, Newark A. C., both of whom are showing close to record time in training.

The sixth man will be chosen from among half a dozen local sprinters who have expressed a wish to compete in this series.

Brentwood Five Wins 6th Victory in League

The Brentwood Hawks scored their sixth consecutive victory in the Prince Georges County Basket Ball League last night, overwhelming the Maryland Collegians, 41 to 7. The Hawks, led by Bailey, who scored five baskets during the game, amassed a 21-0 lead over the Collegians in the first half. The game was played at the Hyattsville Armory.

The Hawks, with six victories and no losses, now lead the league with a full game margin over Company F, which they defeated earlier in the season.

Pitt Gridmen Halt; Drill at St. Louis

Keeping Players Fit for S. California Game Main Task.

Army Team on Coast Has Brief Drill; Goes Sight-Seeing.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh University Football Team, bound for Pasadena, Calif., to meet the University of Southern California New Year's Day, resumed its westward journey tonight after a 5-hour lay-over in St. Louis, during which the entire squad of 33 players went through light signal practice and otherwise limbered up.

The practice session was held on Francis Field at Washington University, where the players were taken after being greeted this afternoon at Union Station by a delegation of Pittsburgh alumni and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce.

They went from here to Kansas City and planned to make stops at Dallas, Tex.; El Paso, Tex., and Tucson, Ariz., for practice work.

"My boys are in good shape, but have had very little chance to practice against Southern California plays," said Coach John R. Sutherland. "The weather conditions at Pittsburgh have made it practically impossible for us to do outdoor work. Keeping fit has been our main task." The players appeared to be confident.

Cadets on Coast Go Sight-Seeing.

Stanford University, Calif., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Geared to a high pitch of efficiency and waiting only the opening whistle, the West Point Football Team, here to battle the Stanford University eleven Saturday, marked time today with a single light practice in the afternoon.

The Cadet gridders spent the morning with a sight-seeing tour of San Francisco that took them through Chinatown, the Golden Gate and other points of interest in the Bay City. Coach Lawrence "Biff" Jones and Capt. Christian Cagle then attended a Stanford club luncheon in the city, returning to the campus to rejoin the squad for a brief workout.

Tonight at the San Francisco Presidio, the officers, many of them former West Pointers, and enlisted men were to hold a rally to celebrate the appearance of the cadets in a Western game.

Coaches at Dallas Whip Teams Into Shape.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The task of whipping an assorted lot of football stars into two compact fighting units began in earnest on two practice fields here today. Only four days of actual practice remain in which the Southwest and Midwest players can be drilled for their benefit game New Year's Day.

Uniforms were issued in both camps and the players assorted and catalogued by the rival coaches. Coach Ray Morrison, of Southern Methodist, intrusted with building a team that will uphold the Southwest's football prestige, gathered his boys around him out at Ownby Stadium. Jimmy Phelan, former Purdue mentor, had his huskies at Fairpark Stadium.

Except to pass the ball around and get limbered up after several weeks of inacitivity, the visiting stars did little today. Hard work will start tomorrow, when two practice sessions are scheduled. Most of the players are in top condition, so it will be possible to start perfecting teamwork at once.

Four All-Stars and Coach Disabled.

San Francisco, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Four gridders and a coach were on the disabled list of the East and West all-star elevens who meet here New Year's Day in the annual Shrine benefit contest as both teams took light workouts today.

Dick Hanley, Northwestern mentor, and assistant coach with Andy Kerr, of Colgate, of the Eastern squad, lay ill in bed here with a heavy cold, while two of his players, Tommy Dowler, of Colgate, and Bill Calderwood, of Northwestern, are hobbling around with leg injuries.

The Western camp numbered Benny Lom, California half back, and Tom Churchill, Oklahoma end, on its cripple list, both suffering from strained tendons incurred in a workout yesterday.

49 Dixie Stars to Start Drills.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—With their Christmas holiday festivities at home ended, 49 Southern Conference gridmen will answer the call tomorrow for the first practice sessions of the squads representing the Northern and Southern divisions of the conference which clash here in the Shrine Hospital charity football game New Year's Day.

Coach Charles Bachman, of the University of Florida, grooming the Southern players, expected to have a full squad at Grant Field, home of the Georgia Tech Yellowjackets, for a preliminary workout. The Northern gridders, coached by Bob Neyland, of the University of Tennessee, will run

Michigan Confines Shires' Action to Preliminaries

DETROIT, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—When and if Charles Arthur Shires fights in this city it will be in a four-round preliminary and not in a main event.

This is the attitude of the Michigan Boxing Commission which was made known today after Benny Ray, matchmaker for the West Side Athletic Club had announced that the self-styled "great" Shires would head a card on New Year's Day.

"It is silly to think of him as a main event fighter," said Henry Komroesky, member of the commission, discussing the first-base pugilist. "The public is entitled to some protection. Shires hasn't yet established himself as a main-event boxer and until he does, he will have to be content with preliminaries if he fights in Detroit at all."

Ray thereupon announced that he would get up another main event and put Shires where the commission thinks he belongs. Art's opponent, he said, probably will be one Battling Criss of Rockwood, Mich., whose professional ring experience equals that of Shires—two fights.

STAR AFIELD DURING 1929

Miami Race Track Officials Are Confident of Operating

Plans for Opening of Hialeah Course on January 16 Go Forward; Keeney Park Closing Seen as No Bar.

Special to The Washington Post.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 26.—"We have a charter permitting us to hold a race meeting in the State of Florida and we certainly shall use it." Thus did Maj. Barclay H. Warburton, president of the Miami Jockey Club, reply to the question as to whether the closing of the Keeney Park meeting will have a bearing on plans for Miami's race meeting scheduled to open January 16.

"The closing of Keeney Park will not have the least effect on Miami's meeting," Maj. Warburton continued. "The Miami Club," he said, "is in no way connected with Keeney Park, has no interests in common with the up-State meeting and will continue with arrangements for the biggest race season Miami ever has had."

Meeting Ran Smoothly Last Year.

The Miami meeting, it was pointed out, went smoothly last winter and was a complete success both from a financial and sporting view, and this despite the fact that pari-mutuels were not in use, and this year the attendance and class of racing are expected to be a great deal better. J. H. Carstairs, Philadelphia millionaire and sportsman; Joseph E. Widener, president of the Westchester Racing Association, owners of Belmont Park, and Maj. Warburton, internationally known diplomatist and sportsman, are the chief stockholders in the track since Joseph M. Smoot, former president and founder of the club, disposed of his interests.

Hialeah, where the race track is located, is only a few miles from the Miami business section and Miami Beach, and is easy of access. Thousands of racing fans have visited the track each day during the past four seasons of racing.

Track Has Operated Four Years.

The track has set a precedent of operating for four seasons and during that time has won the confidence of race goers and horsemen alike. These two factors do much to make the Miami meeting certain.

In the meantime preparations for the opening of the season are going merrily along and everything will be in order by the time opening day rolls around.

"Biff" Jones Is Linked With Oregon Grid Post

Eugene, Oreg., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Rumors were current here today that capt. Biff Jones, West Point football coach, may be approached in connection with the vacant coaching position at the University of Oregon to succeed Capt. John J. McEwan, resigned.

Jack W. Benefil, graduate manager; Virgil Earl, director of athletics, and Del Stanard, representing the alumni of the athletic council, have gone to Palo Alto to see the Army-Stanford game Saturday. There are many reports on the campus that the trip was not entirely one of pleasure.

Jones is admittedly looking for a coaching post since his contract with Army expires this season, and the Army rule permits but a three-year tenancy. Oregon is reported willing to pay Coach Jones $8,000 annually, which is understood to be considerably more than his present salary.

President Arnold Bennett Hall said today he knows nothing of a possible interview with Jones by university officials.

Tom Stoddard, president of the student body, was on vacation today and could not be reached.

Ex-Bronx Bat Boy Gets Baseball Trial

Henry Glaston, the 17-year-old Bronx youth, whom the Cleveland Indians are sending to their Frederick (Md.) farm, in the Blue Ridge League, is setting out in an attempt to disprove a time-worn rule.

In the long history of the game instances where a bat boy or mascot of a big league team rose to fame later on in life by breaking into the big show have been rare. Bill Freigau, now in the minor leagues, is one of the few to do this. In his youth Freigau was bat boy for the Cardinals. Charlie Grimm is another.

Mr. Glaston, who is a shortstop, spent several seasons at the Yankee Stadium and polo grounds helping his brother Joe tend bats for visiting teams.

Dartmouth Track Coach Named for Cuban Team

Havana, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Harry Hillman, Dartmouth College track coach, will arrive in Havana January 6 to take charge of selecting Cuba's team for the second Central American Olympic games, which open here March 15, it was announced today.

Hillman, one of the coaches of the United States track and field team at the Amsterdam Olympics, has been named by the Cuban government as national committeeman in charge of the Havana games. He will conduct a series of eliminations before picking the team.

FIGHT TONIGHT AT CHICAGO.

Chicago, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Boxing's last entry in the ledger for 1929 will be written tomorrow night by Terre Haute's Bud Taylor and Earl Mastro, Chicago Italian, over the ten-round route at the Chicago stadium. Among the boys in the derbies Mastro rules favorite at 6 to 5.

WANT SATURDAY GAMES.

The Montrose A. C. would like to book games with senior and unlimited fives for Saturday night. Phone Manager Carrico at West 1005 between 5 and 7 p. m.

Ray Campbell Dead; Noted as Sports Writer

Cleveland, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Ray Campbell, widely known boxing authority and writer for the Cleveland News, died at his home here last night after an illness of three weeks from typhoid fever and influenza.

Although only 25 years old, Campbell for eight years had been recognized as an authority on boxers and as a manager and promoter. He was one of the few sports writers who predicted Gene Tunney's victory over Jack Dempsey when they fought for the heavyweight championship in Philadelphia the first time. He was a close friend of Tunney and also was associated with Billy Gibson when Gibson was managing Benny Leonard, the famous lightweight.

Campbell's home city was Philadelphia. He joined the sports staff of the News in 1922 and was connected with the newspaper until his death. His column, "Ray Campbell's Punch Bowl," was widely known. Burial will be at Philadelphia Saturday.

Lindstrom to Captain Basket Ball Semipros

Chicago, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Freddy Lindstrom, third baseman of the New York Giants, and a resident of Chicago, has organized a semipro basket ball team which will make its first appearance tonight against an aggregation of former Notre Dame stars headed by Big Tim Moynihan, center on the 1929 Rambler football team. Johnny Colrick, football end, and Joe Jachym, a member of the 1928 Notre Dame eleven, are included in Moynihan's line-up.

13 Outfield Chances In One Game

Critz Has Record Average; High and Jackson Top.

Sheely, Chisox Cast-off, Leads First Basemen.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THREE National League individual fielding records were made and one equaled during 1929, according to the official averages printed in another column of The Post today, two being credited to Earl Clark, Washington boy, who patrols the outer gardens for the Boston Braves. On May 10, Clark had twelve put-outs and one assist in one game. The former record for put-outs was 11, made by Max Carey, with the Pirates in 1921, and for total chances accepted, 11, held by seven other fly-chasers.

The other record broken was the percentage among second basemen, Hugh Critz, of the Cincinnati Reds, having a .984 mark, just topping the best previous one of .983, made in 1925 by Earl Adams, of the Cubs. The equaled record was 11 put-outs in one game, on September 18, by Horace Ford, Cincinnati shortstop.

Earl Sheely, White Sox American League cast-off, showed the way to the first basemen. Dolled up in Pittsburgh livery, he had an average of .996. Andy High, of the Cardinals, and Travis Jackson, of the Giants, were the leaders at third and short, their respective averages being .9672 and .969.

Lerian, Deceased Catcher, Real Leader.

Ethan Allen, of the Reds, had the best record among the outfielders, .988, while Walter Lerian, Philadelphia catcher recently killed in an automobile accident, was the actual leader among the back stoppers. His average was .986 in 103 games, although Miquel Gonzales had a slightly better figure for only 60 games.

Twenty-one pitchers had perfect records of 1.000, but the leader is Arthur "Dazzy" Vance, of the Dodgers, who accepted the most, 62. Val Picinich, former National, who is now toiling for the Brooklyn Dodgers, was charged with 9 passed balls for the undesired leadership in this respect.

Several records in club fielding were equaled or bettered. The Chicago Cubs led on defense with a percentage of .9754, bettering their own previous record, that of .9751, made in 1928. They made the most double-plays, 189, and the most put-outs, 4,190, sharing with the Cincinnati Reds a double-play record for a single game, when 9 were turned in. In this game, played July 3, the Cubs made 5 and the Reds 4. The former mark of 8 in a game had been achieved four times in previous years.

New League Fielding Average Set.

The New York Giants had the most assists, 2,005, and the most total chances, 6,280, with Boston being charged with the most errors, 204, and the most passed balls, 14. The Phillies had the most base-runners stranded, 1,257. The league fielded for a grand average of .9712, breaking the .9708 mark of 1928.

Seven triple plays were made during the season, equaling the former high mark set in 1910.

Tilden to Play Abroad, Shunning Davis Cup

Paris, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden, in the midst of intense training for the French covered courts championship opening here tomorrow, paused long enough today to outline his tennis plans for coming campaigns and reiterate that his days of Davis Cup play are over.

"I will not play Davis Cup tennis any more, but I do intend to compete in the French hardcourt and the Wimbledon championships," Tilden said.

Tilden served as captain of the American forces in last year's unsuccessful attempt to lift the Davis Cup from the French defenders, and was named for the 1930 squad.

Following the covered courts tourney here, Tilden will leave for the Riviera, where he plans to compete at Monte Carlo, Cannes and Nice. He is entered in the singles competition here, and will pair with Charles Kingsley, of England, in the doubles.

HERTZ SEES BRILLIANT RACE MEETING FOR MIAMI

Reigh Count's Owner Talks Of Racing

Says Sport Is Placed on High Plane by Track Officials.

Will Breed His Colt to 25 Selected Mares in 1930.

MIAMI, Dec. 26 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—John D. Hertz, who arrived here from Chicago a few days ago and opened his winter home at Miami Beach for the season, is never too much engaged to talk horses and racing. In discussing the approaching race meeting here today, he said:

"I fail to see how the voluntary closing of Keeney Park on the ground of threatened injunction proceedings can have any effect on the meeting soon to open here. The prospects never looked so bright. With men like J. E. Widener, J. H. Carstairs and Maj. Warburton behind the venture there is every assurance that the racing will be conducted on the highest plane, with the commercial side secondary to the sport side.

"The races this season are sure to attract those who love racing for its own sake, and it will be surprising if the sport does not prove to be better even than in the past. I am looking forward to seeing the colors of Mrs. Hertz in action."

Talks of Reigh Count And Stud Service.

Turning to more general questions, he reiterated that Reigh Count, which won the Coronation Cup in England last June, was definitely in retirement for breeding purposes. He loves to talk about the horse for which he recently refused $1,000,000, offered by W. T. Waggoner, the wealthy Texas oil man. He is confident that his favorite horse will be a success in the stud and said that he would be bred to 25 selected mares next spring and that he anticipated much pleasure in watching his first crop develop as yearlings.

A number of close students of bloodlines have been consulted in selecting mare for Reigh Count, and Mr. Hertz admitted that there was a possibility that Anita Peabody, winner of the Belmont Futurity in 1927, would be sent to his court. A colt or filly from this mating would be a prize.

It will be recalled that Anita Peabody which, by the way, was bred by Mr. and Mrs. Hertz at their own farm near Chicago, beat Reigh Count a head when she won the futurity. At that time she was closer to their hearts than the son of Sunreigh, which had been purchased only three weeks previously for $12,500.

Hopeful of Staging International Race.

When asked today which was their favorite now Mr. Hertz smiled and said: "We love them both. They have given us many thrills and the keenest kind of sporting satisfaction. Few who have taken up the sport have been favored so quickly with two such remarkable horses. We consider Reigh Count the equal of any horse ever developed in this country."

When asked about the proposed international race with $100,000 added next July at Arlington Park under the direction of the American National Jockey Club, of which he is a director, Mr. Hertz said:

"We are more than hopeful that the race will be run. The report of C. J. Fitzgerald, our representative who has just returned from abroad, is decidedly encouraging. As you know three owners have indicated a willingness to enter their horses if they train well next summer and hold their form. We must wait for something more definite, but it is satisfying to know that a number of foreign owners are interested in fostering international competition in racing."

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

—BY BERT R. COLLYER

HOLD everything. Just had the glad tidings from old boy Walter, who is doing things and going places down at New Orleans—that DONAU, the good 2-year-old from the H. Rosecher menage, goes for all the coon skins in the very first race down at Jeff Park this afternoon. Now I know this one has been bet on by the wise boys several times and, as I have mentioned before, money talks louder than anything else, even internationally. Merle Knight will be in the pilot house and no mistakes will be made.

The other good thing down at the Shrewsbury course, where the sport is entering its final lap, is DONNATINA, which goes in the fifth. This trick, a nice second last out, has been dropped down several notches and it looks to me like a good spot to sink the ship.

Also, and for your further information, I am particularly partial to TADDYWAWA in the fourth. Is much better than those she has been asked to run with and I can't see how it will even be close. ZURICH, which came to life with a bang not long ago, has been tabbed for the place money, and RAUCONA gets what is left.

Down at Oriental Park, where Uncle Bertram is going a mean heat, if I do say it myself, and why should not I, the best bet is PANDY. The final race is the spot, and if she does not come home on the chin strap they should load her in a car and ship her to the glue works, pronto. However, I do not think the issue will even be in doubt after they go around that first turn.

The safest proposition at Havana, however, is none other than the consistent LUCKY DRIFT, which has won his last two starts in a row.

and it was hoped that Doktor Haymann would prove to be a doctor of medicine as this would lend itself beautifully to the fomentation of publicity, if the doktor would prove to be a prize fighter of any prowess at all.

But he was disappointed on both counts. Gerald (Tuffy) Griffiths knocked out Doktor Haymann and the same evening Mr. St. Dennis was advised that Doktor is a title which in Germany is conferred on persons having the equivalent of a high school education.

THREE SCHOLASTIC BASKET BALL GAMES TODAY

Alumni Plays At St. Johns, Eastern

Business Quintet to Face Hyattsville in Second Clash.

Series Teams Return to Courts After Absence for Holiday.

THREE scholastic court games today will mark the end of the Christmas respite enjoyed by the teams, and an additional pair of games tomorrow will definitely start the basket ball program on an uninterrupted run which will continue until the first week in March.

Although Eastern was scheduled to meet its alumni yesterday, but few of the grads put in their appearance at the Lincoln Park Gym, and Coach "Chief" Guyon had to be content with merely sending his charges through a brisk scrimmage. However, several of the old-timers have signified their intention to be on hand this morning, and the game is expected to be played.

The Business Five will be the other combination to break the ice of the vacation week, as the Orange and Blue tossers will invade the Hyattsville National Guard Armory for a return game with the Hyattsville High Five, which it so completely routed in its own gym some weeks ago. However, the Maryland team showed a reversal of form against the Tech Team last week and may put up a stronger fight against the Stenogs this afternoon.

A third game will find the St. John's Cadets stacking up against an Alumni five in the Prepmen's opening contest of the season. Although weakened by the loss of Schlegel, Hudson and Lucas, Coach Paully Byrne expects to put a formidable quintet on the floor consisting of Gallagher and Augusterfer, forwards; Cooper, center, and Morris and Quigley, guards. The St. John's team will play its second game of the season on Monday, tackling the Mount St. Joseph's All Stars, who will invade the local floor for the fray.

Gettysburg May Play Western.

Unless the Gettysburg team has scheduled another game for tomorrow night, Coach Clifton R. Moore will lead his Western tossers to the Pennsylvania town for a game with that aggregation. Early in the week the Gettysburg manager requested a game with the Western Five, but only yesterday was the answer sent. Unless he hears to the contrary today, Moore will take his charges northward tomorrow.

The Central Team is also listed to see action tomorrow night, being on the books to oppose the Knight's Store Five of Alexandria at the stronghold across the river. The Blue and White courtmen have shown a decidedly improved form in their last two appearances and may make their opponents hustle tomorrow.

Business is not expecting any trouble from Hyattsville today, although they may not repeat the 54-18 triumph scored in its inaugural, but the Eastern Squad does not figure to have any easy time with the players representing its alumni.

Kessler Takes Part In Scrimmage.

Bruce Kessler, former Eastern luminary and one of the two interhigh court officials recently appointed, took part in the scrimmage at his old school yesterday, and it was about all the present Light Blue and White Team could do to keep up with his fast-moving legs and arms. Along with George Madigan, Joe Sweeney, Angus Heeks and a few more old-timers, the grads may make it plenty tough for the 1929-30 edition this morning.

In meeting the Gettysburg Five, the Western squad of courtmen will be tackling the same team that was giving Central a lacing last Saturday night, before becoming demoralized when one of its teammates threw the ball in the wrong basket to give Central the lead. From then on, the Centralites had little trouble in maintaining their advantage, eventually winning, 29-26. If a Gettysburg performer does not repeat the "Riegels" tomorrow night, the West End gang may find a tough opponent on its hands.

It will be the last game for Central and Western tossers to before meeting their respective Alumni teams early next week. Western is slated to tackle the grads on Monday, while Central will play the game which has become an annual feature of the Mount Pleasant School on New Year's Day.

SWAMP PRESS CARDINALS.

The Y. M. C. A. five buried the National Press Cardinals under a 42-7 score last night on the Central Y. M. C. A. floor. Woodward and Moelen led the winners with 10 and 9 points, respectively.

DIXIE STARS START FOOTBALL DRILLS

through their drills in the Rose Bowl, Tech practice field.

Bachman will have two able assistants in Maj. J. A. Van Fleet, Florida line coach, and Harry Mehre, who directs the gridiron maneuvers of the Georgia Bulldogs. Gus Tebell, of North Carolina State, will act as lieutenant to Neyland, who will also have the services of two of his aids at Knoxville.

Neyland and Bachman were due to arrive late tonight. The vanguard of the all-star band, including John "Shipwreck" Kelly, half back; Drury, tackle, and Williams, center, all of Kentucky, and Benny Rothstein, Georgia full back, arrived yesterday and today and served to heighten interest in the clash which marks the end of the football season in Dixie.

Opening drills were expected to be devoted mainly to running formations and the placing of men at positions. The rival coaches will probably get down to intensive work Saturday.

D. C. Bowlers Invade Hartford Tomorrow

Five of Washington's star bowlers will invade Hartford, Conn., tomorrow intent on hanging up some new duckpin records. Howard Campbell, Maxie Rosenberg, Paul Harrison, Jack Wolstenholme and Ollie Pacini will leave today for New England to meet the pride of Connecticut in singles, doubles and 5-man events, opening a series of matches which will terminate here next Saturday at Lucky Strike and the Coliseum.

The Capital City pinmen are confident that they will hang up some fancy scores at Hartford, as the pin spotting in vogue there is conductive to high scores. The pin sets at Hartford differ with the regulation setups of Washington in that they are more bunched and splits are less frequent. The depth from the No. 1 pin to the 7-10 line is several inches shorter on the Hartford drives than here.

Campbell will oppose Jack White in the singles event. Maxie Rosenberg and Paulie Harrison are slated to roll the doubles. The Grand Palace Valet Shop Team will line up as follows against the crack Connecticut All-Stars: Harrison, Wolstenholme, Pacini, Rosenberg and Campbell.

Marquette Sophomore Has Big Grid Future

Special to The Washington Post.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 26.—Winning considerable all-American and all-Western mention as a sophomore, Johnny Sisk, Marquette University's brilliant back field man from Chicago, already has taken rank as one of the greatest ball-carriers in the history of the gridiron sport on the Hilltop.

James Masker, "dean" of Western Conference grid officials, who announced his retirement as a referee after he worked the Marquette-Kansas Aggie game on Thanksgiving Day, declares that the local university has one of the future greats of intercollegiate football in the Big Train from the Windy City.

Masker has seen the best of the Mid-Western backs at close range this season, and also had a chance to see Sisk steal the show in both the Iowa State and Kansas Aggie games.

Good Court Team Predicted at Lehigh

Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 26.—With victories over Stroudsburg Teachers College and Gettysburg in the two games played, the Lehigh University basketeers closed shop until after the Christmas holidays and will resume the schedule on January 8 with Ursinus College away.

With four veterans comprising the nucleus of the team and an abundance of first-string reserves, Coach Roy Geary is looking forward to one of the best seasons ever. One of the best center prospects since the days of Harry Hesse looms promising in Alan Ware, big 6-foot south Jersey athlete, who, although a sophomore, also starred as a half back in football. Ware has the heighth and a good jump and had considerable experience in playing the position in scholastic basket ball. The veterans are Bob Many and Max Schultz, a pair of accurate shooting forwards, and Capt. "Bob" Bennett and "Buck" Schaub, both seasoned guards.

Plenty of Vaulters On Tarheel Squad

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Dec. 26.—The 1930 North Carolina track team promises to boast a wealth of material in the pole vault, despite the loss of Vernon Cowper, who set the university record up to 12 feet 5, several inches above the State mark. Neiman vaulted 11 feet 6 and better last. Arnold, Dry and Ruble have been vaulting approximately the same in fall practice, and all these boys are improving steadily.

MARQUETTE DREW 85,000.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Even though it played one less football game than usual, Marquette University Football Team last season drew about 15,000 more spectators than in 1928, due largely to two night games. Unofficial figures place total attendance at home games at 85,000, with two night contests attracting 34,000.

ONLY TWO VETS ON HAND.

Only two lettermen are on the squad of the Penn State basket ball team this season.

Gold Footballs Given Charlottesville Youths

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 25.—The following members of the Fives Football Squad, claimants of the national championship in the 100-pound class, have been awarded letters and will receive red sweaters, as well as gold footballs, presented by the local Rotary Club: Elliott Leroy Strickler, Richard H. Payne, Harry E. Dinwiddie, jr.; Herman W. Huffman, Rosser J. Eastham, W. Gordon Marshall, John M. Roberts, Frank Spear Bruffey, Michael H. Williams, jr.; Edmund Anderson Davis and John William Kane.

The club kept to its custom inaugurated last year of awarding only eleven letters to the players who, in the judgment of the coach, Bob Osborn, can play the eleven positions on the team the best at the end of the season. The awards were made at the annual banquet given the club by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Dinwiddie, sr., at their home at Frys Spring.

Rosser Eastham was elected 1930 football captain. Buck Dinwiddie was voted the most valuable substitute by the letter men and will receive the twelfth gold football presented by the Rotary Club.

Nine boys were presented with squad sweaters. They were William Edward Brown, Samuel Leake Anderson, Harmon A. Dinwiddie, jr.; Ellsworth W. Roberts, Clarence W. Stockdale, Downing L. Smith, Frederick Leland Dove, Francis Daniel Clarke and Percy Philip Payne.

Star Women Bowlers Clash at Rendezvous

The George C. Schaffer Buds, including Lorraine Gulli, Elsie Fischer, Pauline Ford, Margaret Leaman and Peggy Babcock, will engage the Regent women's bowling team of Baltimore in a 5-game match at Tad Howard's new Rendezvous Alleys at Fourteenth and Buchanan streets tonight at 8 o'clock. The visiting team recently lost a match to the Recreation Team by 3 pins and is rated one of the strongest women's teams in the country.

The teams will roll a return match at Baltimore at a later date.

WIN IN LAST MINUTE.

Budner's goal in the last 15 seconds of play last night at the Central Y. M. C. A. enabled the "Y" Reserves to defeat the Saranac A. C., 31-30. Buzzard led the winners with 12 points, although Parsons, of the losers, was high man for the evening with 14 tallies.

W. VA. RING TEAM LISTS 3 FOES

Match With Army's Boxers Only Home Contest Listed.

Special to The Washington Post.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 25. With three "major" opponents already scheduled for the first intercollegiate boxing team of West Virginia University, and the prospect of two or three others for the card, the glove artists Coach Eddie Vacheresse has under his tutelage at the present time are certain of facing a difficult opening season.

The bouts with the United States Military Academy Team here on March 8 constitute the only home duel announced thus far, and the other two matches are with Penn State at State College, Pa., January 25, and New York University at New York City February 1. Director H. A. Stansbury announced that the complete card for the West Virginia boxers will not be ready for release until after the first of the eyar.

Last year an informal boxing team from the Mountaineer camp fought a postseason duel with the Penn State outfit and gave the Nittany Lions more trouble than had been anticipated. The two aces of that group of West Virginians who won from their Penn State opponents, Gregg Krebs and Harry Stunkard, 145 and 155 pounders, form the nucleus of this year's team, which, incidentally, Kreb is captaining.

In Squad.

Two Dozen Hopefuls

Coach Vacheresse has been working with a squad which has been reduced to about two dozen hopefuls ever since football season ended. Krebs had a group under his tutelage during the latter part of the season, and as a result the Mountaineer mittmen are well along in their conditioning. Coach Vacheresse has prescribed a set of training rules for his proteges for the vacation period now in vogue and will start in regular sessions when classes are resumed January 2.

A second attempt will be made to correct a knee injury to Eddie Stumpp, diminutive West Virginia athlete, here tomorrow morning when the little Mountaineer star will go under the knife at a local hospital. Stumpp was injured in the Washington and Lee football game in 1928 as a sophomore. The damaged knee would not permit him to take part in basketball last season and he underwent an operation which likewise held him out of baseball.

Played During 1929 Without Injury.

During the past fall Stumpp managed to get through the football season without serious injury, but his knee never sufficiently mended to permit him to play regularly. He tried basketball again this year, but found his injured member unfit for the strain.

Specialists here who have been caring for the case will operate tomorrow to take the "play" out of the damaged ligaments. Last year the semilunar cartilage was removed, but the injured muscles did not develop sufficiently during the past year to keep the ligaments in place and the "tightening" process has been prescribed as the best remedy.

ARCADIANS WIN AGAIN.

The Arcadians won their eighth straight victory last night and their second start in the Boys' Club League by defeating the Samosets, 35-6, at the Boys' Club gym. The winners would like games with teams in the 130-pound class, which may be booked with Manager Irvin Johnson at Cleveland 6496.

M'LEAN FIVE SCORES.

The McLean A. C. five defeated Rockville last night in a thriller on the McLean court. The final score was 25-23. McLean led all the way, but was threatened by the last-minute spurt of the invaders. Besly returned to the McLean line-up and played a bang-up game. McLean plays a double-header tomorrow night, meeting the Optimists and the Woodside fives. Manager Don Funk is booking games for McLean at Metropolitan 6612 after 5:30 o'clock.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

THE NEW YEAR may hold some golf surprises, but the chances are the upsets of 1930 will be nothing like so astonishing as those of 1929. It seems reasonable to suppose that even in a game so uncertain as golf, Bobby Jones will not be defeated for the second year in a row in the first round of the amateur championship.

Could a daring spirit, with his bankroll in hand, have stood on the first tee of 1929 on last New Year's Day and offered to make wagers on the year's development in golf, he might safely have offered two that would have resulted in a riot as the crowd rushed forward to cover his money.

Both would have concerned the great Robert T. Jones, jr. Almost any golfer would have put money on the line that Bobby would not lose any first round match anywhere, and just as many would have been willing to bet that Jones could not defeat any professional by 23 strokes in a play-off for the open title.

As the new golf year opens, Bobby must defend his open title and make arrangements to conduct a single-handed assault in his own behalf against his friend, Jimmy Johnston, for the amateur title. The Atlanta lawyer, too, in all probability will be called on to again captain the Walker Cup Team in its defending voyage to Great Britain, and while abroad will try his luck in the British open and the British amateur.

LEO DIEGEL will have to defend two titles, the Professional Golfers Association championship and the Canadian open. Walter Hagen has intimated that he may let the British open go by default, but when the players are started on their way Sir Walter probably will be seen striding along in the confident Hagen manner.

In the pro events, Horton Smith will be about as busy as any one golfer beating back the opposition seeking the laurels he won last year in Florida and North Carolina. The Joplin youth won the Florida open, the LaGorce open, the North and South open and the Pensacola open. Gene Sarazen was a double winner at Miami, winning in the Miami open and the Miami Beach open.

Wild Bill Mehlhorn must be active, too, to stand off the charge certain to be made against his strongholds. William the Wild won the Texas open, the El Paso open, the Hot Springs open and the Metropolitan open.

Macdonald Smith, the tall Scot who plays in only a few competitions each year, but is hard to beat when he enters, was returned the winner in the Los Angeles open and the Long Island open.

BOBBY, as usual, will carry the major interest in the year's play, and will dominate any event in which he enters, if not in play, in appeal to the followers of the game, present and absent. He will be the one the professionals are pointing for in the open, at home and abroad. His defeat in California should be helpful to his game, for his long stretch of victories at match play in the amateur had to end somewhere, and now that it is broken, the Georgia lawyer can start all over again.

Hyattsville Bowling Events Are Scheduled

Two special events have been added to the holiday bowling program at Hyattsville. Dick Miller and "Fiddles" Holland, youthful Hyattsville stars, will engage "Buddy" Verius and "Mal" Deffenbaugh, of Silver Spring, in a five-game doubles match at the Arcade tomorrow night.

The Central Armature Works Team, leader in the Electrical League race, will clash with the Washington Suburban Sanitary District Office Team, leader in section 2 of the Prince Georges County League, Monday night on the Arcade drives.

Alexandria Midgets Win at Fredericksburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 26.—The Virginia Midgets, of Alexandria, displayed some snappy football here today to defeat the Fredericksburg Tigers, 22 to 0. The touchdowns were made by J. Travers, F. Pullman and S. Jackson, while Paul Humphrey booted a field goal. Humphreys and Owens starred on the defensive for the Alexandria Boys while Francis' ball-carrying stood out.

Calvary Eagles Take Fourth Straight Game

The fast-stepping Calvary Eagles captured their fourth straight game last night at the Fort Myer gym, defeating the heavier Machine Gun five of the Post, 40-31. It was a close game throughout, with the Eagles holding but an 18-15 advantage at intermission. Booth and Wilton led the winners with 16 and 13 points, respectively. The Eagles will be after their fifth scalp tonight when they meet the St. Thomas quintet in the Calvary gym at 7 o'clock.

BUSY SEASON FOR N. C. U. NETMEN

Meets With Navy and Princeton Feature Schedule.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Dec. 26.—Meets with strong Navy and Princeton teams feature the University of North Carolina's 1930 wrestling schedule, released here today by Charles T. Woollen, graduate manager of athletics.

The schedule is regarded as the hardest undertaken by a Tarheel team since wrestling was made a varsity sport here.

There will be seven meets and probably eight, topped by participation, begininng March 1, in the newly inaugurated first annual Southern Conference wrestling tournament.

Four of the meets will be with strong Southern Conference teams. Two others will be with intersectional foes, Navy and Princeton. Davidson is the one nonconference opponent.

N. C. State May be Added To Schedule.

North Carolina State will probably be added to the schedule, Mr. Woollen said, as soon as an agreement can be reached regarding time, while a change in date for the Virginia meet is likely.

Both Navy and Princeton are to be met away, so that the grapplers will have two fine trips. Only the Duke and Virginia meets are carded for the tin can here.

The complete schedule follows:

January 18—Duke at Chapel Hill; 25, Navy at Annapolis.
February 1—V. P. I., at Blacksburg; 8, Princeton at Princeton; 12, Davidson, at Davidson; 15, Virginia, at Chapel Hill; 22, V. M. I., at Lexington.
March 1—Southern Conference tournament.

Philadelphia, Dec. 26.—Jo G. Roberts was today elected commodore of the newly formeed Penn A. C. Yacht Club at a meeting of the members held at the club in Rittenhouse square. NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

REJOINING DISTRICT IS URGED BY BYARS

Advantages to Arlington Are Cited by Counsel for Association.

YULE PAGEANT PLANNED

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Discussing his views regarding the movement sponsored by the Back to the District Association, J. Cloyd Byars, chief counsel for the association, last night gave out the following statement:

"There is no disposition on my part to include the City of Alexandria in the back-to-the-District movement, unless the people of that city want to be included," said Mr. Byars, when asked regarding this phase of the movement. "Of course, if the retrocession act of 1846 should be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, the original District lines would be reestablished, which would include Alexandria City. If, however, the State of Virginia should decide to make a graceful tribute to the memory of its most illustrious son and cede back to the Federal Government on or before the 200th anniversary of Washington's birthday that part of the original District now embraced in Arlington County, it could eliminate the City of Alexandria. I have understood that there are many people in Alexandria who would like to become citizens of the District and enjoy, along with the citizens of the county, the many advantages to be gained.

"Speaking as a citizen of Virginia, deeply interested in all that concerns her development and progress, as well as a patriotic American anxious to see the National Capital become the most beautiful city in the world, I am of the opinion that all Northern Virginia, particularly the counties of Loudoun, Fairfax, Fauquier and Prince William, would be tremendously benefited if the District lines were brought closer to them.

"For that and other reasons, I am favorably inclined to the proposed commission advocated by State Senator Frank L. Ball, looking to the development of the Virginia metropolitan area. But the citizens of this section need not expect action on the part of Congress, looking to the beautification and improvement of this territory, unless they feel enough interest in the matter to make their wishes known by identifying themselves with the Back to the District Association, which is now asking for their moral and financial support."

In conclusion, Mr. Byars stated that the association is maintaining headquarters in the Rucker Building, at Clarendon, in the rooms formerly occupied by the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, where those interested in the movement are invited to come day or night and gain first-hand information as to the association's plans.

The pageant will conclude with the offering which each class will place on the altar. The funds usually used to purchase candy, fruits and gifts for the members of the church school have been placed in the hands of each class. This amount, to which each class expects to make an addition, will be placed on the altar at the class roll call and will be sent to the Blue Ridge Mountain Industrial School, where they will be used to clothe a dependent boy for one year and pay the tuition of a dependent day pupil.

Concluding this part of the service there will be a Christmas party for the church school and parents in the parish hall, where there will be a short program, under the direction of Mrs. Frank Davis.

KIN KILLER'S BRAIN HAS NO BLOW TRACE

Coroner Says Examination Fails to Show Slayer of Seven Hit.

OFTEN HAD HEADACHES

Greensboro, N. C., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The theory that a blow on the head a year ago caused Charles B. Lawson, Stokes County farmer, to become suddenly insane yesterday, killing his wife and six children, was being discounted by physicians today.

A special dispatch to the Greensboro (N. C.) Daily Record today quoted Dr. B. J. Helsabeck, Stokes County coroner, as saying that physicians who have removed the brain of the man who shot his family and later killed himself, have found no trace of a blow on the brain.

Dr. Helsabeck, was assisted in the examination by Dr. Spotswood Taylor, a surgeon in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, who has been visiting relatives near Walnut Cove.

The brain, after further examination, is to be removed to Johns Hopkins Hospital in an effort to discover what type of insanity was responsible for Lawson's act.

Dr. Helsabeck, who was Lawson's family physician, declared today that thus far the examination had revealed a low grade degenerative process in the middle of the brain.

"I have noted during the past 12 months that Lawson was acting queerly. He had been coming to me with complaints of severe headaches," Dr. Helsabeck said.

The extension would be the operation of a ferry between Chesapeake Bach, Md., and Trippe's Bay, near Cambridge, on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Two boats, the company stated, will be put into service at once, if authorization is obtained from the commission. The ferry service would be financed by an issue of corporate bonds for $750,000, secured by first mortgage.

The proposed eastern terminus would be at a point about 10 miles from Cambridge. Motorists using the ferry to the Eastern Shore would have 36 miles.

STANDARDS OF LIFE FOUND LOW ON FARM

Virginia Commission Sees Advancement Hope in Education.

LAWS WILL NOT HELP

Richmond, Va., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Virginia's rural living standards are relatively low, but until levels of appreciation are raised through improvement of educational conditions there can be no hope of materially and idealistically improving the farmer's lot in this State, a joint legislative and executive commission announced in an exhaustive report here tonight.

This is the conclusion on which the commission, created at the 1928 assembly session, bases recommendations to the assembly next month to make farm living more satisfactory. Until, however, the farmer has helped himself there will be no permanent improvement, the report declared.

"The State," it asserted, "beyond control over certain pathological minimums, has no power to compel people to raise their living standards to any given level, however desirable. Further than removing certain inequalities, the State can only aid indirectly in such ways as through improvement of the educational status, and by safeguarding health."

Laws Are Not Cure.

The commission, whose report will be filed with the General Assembly on its convening January 8, is composed of the following from the Senate: S. J. Thompson, Pounding Mill, and J. B. Watkins, Midlothian, from the House of Delegates, W. Stuart Moffett, Staunton; A. J. Terrell, New Canton, and F. K. Whitehead, Roseland; from appointments of the governor, Julian A. Burruss, Blacksburg; R. Warren Fuqua, Prospect; G. F. Holsinger, McGaheysville; T. C. Johnson, Norfolk; J. V. Nichols, Purcellville, and Edward G. Tankard, Nassawadox. Its officers, elected by the members, are Julian A. Burruss, chairman, and G. F. Holsinger, secretary.

The enactment of laws, the commission believes, can not cure all the ills of farming in Virginia, but, is concluded, "it is probable that something may be accomplished by the elimination of certain laws that hurt the farmer, and by the enactment of a few additional laws in his behalf."

Means by which income can be increased are looked upon by the commission as one of the fundamental propositions by which rural living can be improved. The commission found that the average annual value of goods used by a Virginia rural family was $1,000, from figures furnished by the department of rural sociology of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Of this, more than 57 per cent was estimated as being purchased from outside sources, while approximately 42 per cent was furnished by the farm.

Food Largest Item.

The largest item in a table of expenditures for the average farm family in one year was for food, a total of $412, of which about two-thirds was estimated to be furnished by the farm. The farm also furnished operating goods, including fuel, without rent payment, but contributed nothing for clothing, furnishings and equipment, maintenance of health, advancement, personal goods, life and health insurance and unclassified items.

The amount of $66 a year allowed for advancement was regarded by the commission as a fair index of a family's plane of living. The lower a family's income the larger the proportion of the living budget which must go into provision for primary wants, it discovered.

"How to find the money to help ambitious sons and daughters get a good education is an almost insuperable difficulty with many a farm family. Furthermore, the advancement allowance includes little provision for books and magazines, even though rural people do not generally have access to public libraries. One reason why rural churches and other rural organizations fail to measure up to satisfying standards is because rural families simply do not have the money for their adequate support.

Information available to the commission revealed that general rural studies showing that both the farmer and his wife work approximately eleven hours a day are applicable to Virginia. "The long hours of the farmer and his wife," it concludes, "result in such physical exhaustion that they cannot read intelligently when they do quit work, neither are they in condition to properly participate in group activities."

Phone Alexandria 523.

Three officers and 40 enlisted men of the Alexandria Light Infantry, officially known as Company I, 183d Infantry, Virginia National Guard, will march in the inaugural parade of Gov.-elect John Garland Pollard, in Richmond, January 15. As there are no State funds available for sending the local guardsmen to Richmond, the expenses will be borne by the members of the company. The trip will be made by motor bus.

The company is under the command of Capt. W. Cameron Roberts, First Lieut. W. Milton Glasgow and Second Lieut. John L. Arnold. There are approximately 60 enlisted men on the company roster, but not all will be able to take the trip. New roll-collar uniforms are being issued, and all men are expected to be fully equipped in time for the weekly drill, January 6.

It is understood a large number of the National Guard units of the State have been invited to participate in the inaugural parade. The local unit, which was reorganized about two years ago, and which is sponsored by the local American Legion post, is expected to make a good showing in the parade.

Liberty Rebekah Lodge, No. 16, Odd Fellows, has elected the following officers for a six months' term, to be installed on January 14: Miss Gretta Ludwig, past grand; Mrs. Viola Hudson, noble grand; Mrs. Arline Wakeman, vice grand; Thomas Schroyer, recording secretary; Mrs. Raymond Gaines, financial secretary; Mrs. Bessie Kringler, treasurer.

Miss May Stanell, distict deputy, will install these officers and also the appointive officers on January 14.

The George Washington Birthday Association will hold a meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the Chamber of Commerce, to decide upon staging a parade February 22. It extends an invitation to all interested to attend. Officers will also be elected.

Sleet Forced Violation Of Code on Use of Flag

Hundreds of people passing the corner of Pehnsylvania avenue and Fourteenth street northwest during the past few evenings have stopped in surprise at the unusual sight of the United States flag standing out stiffly after sundown from its mast on top of the District Building.

It wasn't the result of disrespect or negligence, however, it was explained at the District Building yesterday. The trouble was that the flag was soaked during the recent sleet storm and when employes of the building attempted to haul it down, they found it frozen stiff. Because of the height of the pole and the slippery condition of the roof, there was nothing to do but wait for the sun to dry the flag out during ensuing days, so that it could be hauled down last night.
